OPPOSITION TO FEDERAL COAL BILL GROWING

Harding's Recommendations to Control Legislation Still Tied Up.

'OLD GUARD' ATTACKS

Claim Measure Infringes On Constitutional Rights of Operators

Washington, Sept. 7.—President Harding's recommendations for congressional legislation to relieve the coal crisis were still tied up in the senate today.

Although the president made his recommendations nearly three weeks ago, the administration coal control bill, the first of them to receive concrete form was meeting with stiff opposition.

Even the emphatic declaration of Senator Cummins, chaiman of the senate intersate commerce committee, that the proposed legislation to give the Interstate Commerce Commission blanket authority to distribute coal and curb profiteering was strongly desired by the president failed to check the attacks of "old guard" senators like Reed of Pennsylvania, and Dupont of Delaware.

They intimated if congress does finally accede to the president's wishes to enact the bill, coal operators and dealers collectively are prepared to carry their fight against it to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary, in an effort to sustain their contention that it is an "unconstitutional invasion of their individual rights."

"Aside from the organized opposition to the bill by both Republican and Democratic senators on the job", the absence of a large number of their colleagues also threatened to hold it up indefinitely.

An adjournment occurred yesterday when a roll call showed but 47 senators present, or less than a quorum with 44 absent from Washington, and it was feared a similar situation would prevail today.

Although Senator Cummins warned that the "longer the enactment of the bill is delayed the worse situation will become," there was a marked lack of interest in it even by many of those senators present.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, declared that even if the bill becomes a law it will be the easiest thing imaginable to avoid it.

SHOOTS CHILDREN KILLING TWO; FEAR VIOLENCE IN SOUTH

Textile Worker Deliberately Takes Lives of Youthful Neighbors.

Clover. S. C., Sept. 7.—William Farris, 55 year old textile worker, was rushed under heavy guard today to the state penitentiary at Columbia, following a wild shooting spree, during which he fired on a group of children killing two and wounding four others, one of whom is believed to be dying. The children were all members of the family of James M. Taylor.

The dead: Newton Taylor 13, son of James Taylor, and Claude J. Taylor, a nephew. The wounded: Gertie Taylor 20; Dolly 10; Lela 16, and Fred 23. Fred Taylor is dying.

According to witnesses Farris armed himself with two shot guns late yesterday afternoon and picked off the children as they emerged from their home. Feeling is running high and Farris was removed to Columbia to avoid possible mob violence.

ANOTHER DELAY IN MINE RESCUE

Jackson, Cal., Sept. 7.—Jackson was downcast today following the report of rescuers that it would require from seven to fifteen days to reach the forty-seven trapped miners in the depths of the fire-ridden Argonaut gold mine. Government, state and mine company engineers declined to comment officially on this prediction. Rescue workers began the eleventh day of their race with death in the face of heart breaking obstacles.

Plans to make the main drive in the 3,600 foot level of the adjoining Kennedy mine to reach the entombed man and leaving the task of boring small apertures by the crew working on the 3,900 foot level for water and air pipes, were changed today. Both crews will drive straight ahead in an effort to liberate the men.

PEACE PROPOSALS TO END WARFARE IN IRELAND NEAR

Advances Will be Made When Dial Eireann Meets Saturday

Dublin, Sept. 7.—Peace proposals to end the warfare between Irish irregulars and the free state forces will be proposed when the Dail Eireann meets Saturday, it was learned today Willian T. Cosgrave probably will lead the free staters in debate while Eamonn Devalera, despite reports of his capture, is expected to head the anti-treaty side.

The report that Devalera and Erskine Childers were captured is doubted here. It is believed that the free state forces have had numerous opportunities to capture the rebel chief, but refrained for fear of "martyizing him."

Erskine Childers, chief aid to Devalert has been wounded. A strong movement is growing up among followers of the late Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins that, if Erskine is really a prisoner as reported he be deported to England. He is said to be a native of England.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOLLOWING DEATHS FROM BAD WHISKEY

Third Taken Into Custody as Eleven Die From Poisonous Liquor.

New York. Sept. 7.—A third woman was arrested today in connection with the investigation into the deaths of eleven men and women, who were killed by poisonous whiskey and gin in Brooklyn.

The arrest was made during a raid by the federal authorities upon the apartment house at 143 Conover Street, Brooklyn. They came across a flat with the door padlocked, getting no response to their knocks, the officers broke in the door, finding a woman inside. She was identified as Mrs. Margaret Polazzole. She was taken into custody, charged with illegal possession of liquor. According to authorities the woman denied that she had made or sold whiskey but the authorities say they found a number of bottles in the apartment containing liquors of various colors. All were seized.

The Kings County Grand Jury today began an investigation into the deaths. The latest victims were Martin J. Connolly, aged 55, a printer, and his brother-in-law, Thomas McPadden. Brooklyn in the red "nook" district, where most of the recent whiskey deaths have taken place.

THRONGS JAM STREETS AS VIOLENCE THREATENS FOLLOWING SHOOTING

Police Institute Curfew Law to Disperse Loiterers Late at Night—One Arrested is Released—Quiet Reigns Thursday.

FATHER OF BOY MAY FILE MURDER CHARGE

Physicians Encouraged Over Condition of Dorsey Nichols Who is Seriously Wounded—Parents Are Grief Stricken.

Xenia was quiet Thursday after a night of anticipated terror and possible mob violence toward Sheriff Lincoln Funderburg and his deputies as the result of the killing by a sheriff's posse Tuesday night of one boy and the wounding of three others.

Although the streets and sidewalks were congested with an unusually large mid-week crowd, that seemed to center at Main and Detroit streets in front of the Xenia National Bank, there were no outbreaks of any kind, and the crowd was for the most part orderly. Police are of the belief that many of the pedestrians had come into the city curious to see if violence against the officers would break out.

A cordon of extra policemen patrolled the city Wednesday night, besides regular members of the department. Chief of Police M. E. Graham had remained late awaiting supposed recting the police activities and Lieutenant of Police David Mangan was called back from his vacation for night duty. The police dispersed one crowd of 300 or 400 people that had congregated on the street, and in which mutterings against the officers who did the fatal shooting were heard. Curfew sounded at about 11:20 o'clock, when under orders of Chief Graham, police ordered all pedestrians off the street and the streets were cleared of the people who had remain late awaiting the supposed arrival of relatives of Logan Nichols, father of the slain youth, who were expected to go gunning for the officers on their arrival.

Patrolman Ancil Stephens arrested one man apparently leading a gang of several in the direction of the county jail and sheriff's residence. The man was released by Chief Graham after he promised to go home which he did. No other trouble developed during the night.

Reports that relatives of Logan Nichols expected from Kentucky would seek revenge for the death of the boy, were discountenanced by members of the Nichols family, who also denied a rumor that 25 or 30 men were expected. Two men, James Lacey and Scott Nichols, uncles of the dead boy, were expected by relatives on late trains Wednesday night, but did not arrive. They believed that telegrams sent them Wednesday morning must have miscarried. Three policemen awaited arrivals of trains at the depot late Wednesday night to forestall any possible gun-play, but their watch was unrewarded.

Thursday morning the streets were quiet, and while talking of the shooting affray was still evident, there were no excited knots of pedestrains in evidence. Extra policemen who were added to the department for special duty Wednesday afternoon and night only, were again sworn in for duty Thursday afternoon and night as a precautionary measure only and not because there was the evidence of possible mob violence that existed Wednesday.

As authorities were taking every precaution to quell an outbreak against the sheriff or his deputies, distress and grief filled the little home of the Nichols family on the Wilmington pike at the Hook road. Logan Nichols, father of the boy killed, and of Dorsey Nichols. 16, who is seriously wounded at the Espey Hospital, was in a state bordering on nervous collapse Wednesday night, and he walked continuously up and down the road. At the same time the mother of the boys was in a serious physical state because of recent illness and the shock resulting from the Tuesday night tragedy. Sisters of the boys, Mrs. Nettie Nichols of Dayton and Miss Etta Nichols of Cincinnati, were also in a serious state resulting from shock. They were broken down by the weight of grief, and in need of attention most of the time. Both sisters went to the depot to meet their uncles and were much disappointed at their non-arrival.

The sisters and father of the boys completed arrangements for the funeral of the dead lad with the undertaker Thursday morning. The services will be held at the chapel in Woodland Cemetery Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be in charge of the Rev. E. W. Middleton, pastor of the First Reformed Church. Burial will be made in Woodland. The family is still hoping that the uncles of the boy from Kentucky, near Lexington, will be here in time for the services.

Physicians Thursday morning were encouraging over condition of Dorsey Nichols, the boy who is wounded at Espey Hospital. Although surgeons feel that it is impossible to operate or to probe for the bullet that is lodged somewhere near his chest yet, they are hoping that the bullet th t pierced his body lower down, missed the stomach and other vital organs. Surgeons characterized such a case as a "miracle" Thursday morning, but believed owing to the good condition of the youth, that such a case might have happened. The boy turned over and slept on his side Wednesday night for the first time since the shooting and awoke Thursday morning apparently brighter. He has a considerable appetite, say the attending physicians, especially for things he can not eat. Unless something unforeseen developed Warren Middleton, 16, who was shot in the arm during the Tuesday night affray will recover from the effects of his wound. He is eating three meals a day, and his general condition good. Surgeons said Thursday morning when they dressed the wound, that it looked good. They are hoping that nothing foreign sets in the wound.

Although numerous unfounded rumors, ranging from the story of the death of Dorsey Nichols, to the rumor that state troops were smuggled into the city Wednesday night, were being circulated on the streets Wednesday night and Thursday morning, none are based on fact. Local police feel capable of handling the policing situation without outside aid, and there will be no need for troops, they say.

No further action on the part of authorities has been forthcoming and none is necessary, county officials say. The case, authorities say, now rests upon the result of the coroner's inquest, for which the coroner is now preparing evidence and which will be held after the burial of the dead youth.

Logan Nichols, father of the slain youth, is said to have intimated Wednesday night that he would file an affidavit charging first degree murder against the sheriff and his deputies. In that case the charge would eventually reach the grand jury anyway. The usual official charge in similar cases is said to be manslaughter, although it is up to the grand jury to fix the degree of murder, should it hold an investigation, and in that investigation, it should develop that the officers were to blame. Attorneys have advised Nichols, it is said, that he has a clear case for civil action for damages, and he has intimated that he will bring such suit from the proper channels later on.

Although the streets were crowded with the curious Wednesday night, many people also visited the Whitmer undertaking establishment to view the body of Volney Nichols, who was killed as a result of the tragic Tuesday night shooting affair. Many more visited the scene of the shooting on the Wilmington pike, near the Frank Weaver home, there being a constant stream of automobiles along the pike. While Xenia was crowded with people, many farmers who lived in that neighborhood, the villages around Xenia were also wrought up over meagre news of the shooting and craving particulars of the affair. Pedestrians gathered in knots on the streets of the villages discussing the tragedy Wednesday night.

COAL SHORTAGE MAY BE PREVENTED

Washington, Sept. 7.—Anthracite coal shortage may be prevented for householders this winter, if anthracite operators agree today to a government proposal that existing contracts be ignored unless the coal delivered is to be used in domestic heating. This, and other questions dealing with measures to prevent suffering in homes of the people this winter will be taken up at a conference in Philadelphia late today between government officials and anthracite operators. On behalf of the government, Secretary Hoover and Commissioner Otchison of the I. C. C., will insist upon utmost cooperation by operators to facilitate smooth distribution of coal soon to be produced by resumption of operations in the Pennsylvania fields. Government officials are determined to use the powers of the interstate commerce commission, through priority and embargoes to assure plenty of coal for household use.

Railroad Reservoir Blown Up; Strikers Are Blamed

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 7.—The Beaver Run reservoir of the Lehigh Valley railroad, the largest water supply of the company, was blown up last night and millions of gallons of water released, which caused considerable damage to the company property, it became known here today.

Only meagre reports have reached here, but officials from this section were dispatched to the scene this morning.

Strikers are blamed for the dynamiting. Company detectives have been on the lookout for men who were reported to have concealed large quantities of dynamite on company property. The blowing out of the dam is believed to be a part of the plot.

BRITISH CABINET CONSIDERS NEAR EASTERN CRISIS

Britain To Propose New Treaty to Take Place of That of Sevres

London, Sept. 7.—With Premier Lloyd George presiding, the British cabinet met today to discuss the near east crisis, precipitated by the Turkish defeat of the Greeks and a relpy to the French war debt note. It is understood that Great Britain will propose a new treaty to take place of the treaty of Sevres.

The British reply to the French war debt note is expected to be conciliatory in view of the attitude of foreign office officials that there should be no controversy before the next meeting of the supreme council

The British are now said to be inclined to accept the French attitude that the allies shall not intervene but shall allow the Turks and Greeks to fight it out and arrange their own armistice terms. This is suitable to the Turks but not to the Greeks who believed that the allies would get them better terms.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED

Columbus, Sept. 7.—State Highway Director Herrick announced today that D. W. McGrath, Columbus contractor, had been awarded the contract for the construction of six cottages at the Orient Farm for feeble minded. McGrath bid was $624.036 on the general contract and $15,800 on the sewage contract.

STRIKE CLOUDS BREAK AS PEACE SEEMS NEAR

RECTOR NOT OPTIMISTIC

Dublin, Sept. 7.—"I am going home with a sorry heart," said Monsignor Lavelle, Rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, in an interview today on the eve of his departure. "I am going home with the conviction that all we have done is fruitless effort. It pains beyond measure to think that such a glorious opportunity should be turned by the hands of her own sons into one one of Ireland's greatest tragedies."

FORCES OF TURKS ARE NOW CLOSE TO GREEK STRONGHOLD

General Tricupis Active Commander Opposing Turks Captured

London, Sept. 7.—The entire Greek army which has been operating south of Adana, on the Anatolian battle front, has been surrounded by Turks and captured, according to advices from Constantinople this evening.

London, Sept. 7.—Turkish forces on the offensive against the Greeks on the Anatolian battle front are advancing with astonishing rapidity and are only 21 miles from Smyrna, seat of Greek great headquarters, according to unconfirmed advices from Constantinople today. One hundred thousand Greeks, not counting the civilians are in flight.

General Tricupis, active Greek commander in the field, was reported to have been captured.

The Greeks attempted a stond on the northern end of the front and succeeded in annihilating a Turkish cavalry regiment.

Advices from Athens deny that former Premier Venizelos is returning to that city. Venizelos was in control of the Greek government at the end of the war when the allies compelled King Constantine to abdicate. Later when Constantine returned as the result of a popular plebescite in his favor, Venizelos became an exile himself.

Constantinople dispatches say that the Greeks have evacuated four more towns—Bairamitch, Exine, Aivadjik and Higha. The Turks are reported to control virtually all the Asiatic coast of the Dardanelles.

CALL FOR VOTE ON SETTLEMENT PLAN IS SENT

Shopcraft's Policy Committee Will Meet Monday In Chicago.

MAY END WALKOUT

Body Has Power to Put End to Trouble Over Nation

Chicago, Sept. 7.—The dark clouds of the destructive labor-capital war of shopmen and railroads which threatened to involve all railroad brotherhods and even go as far as to bring about a general labor strike, were split with a widening rift of peace today.

Official call for a meeting of the shopcraft's policy committee of 90 to vote on the proposed plan of settlement had gone to the members and decks were being cleared for action. The meeting will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Sheridan-Plaza hotel here.

This policy committee which consistes of 90 men, representing three divisions throughout the United States, has the power to accept propositions which will end the national railroad strike.

That the meeting on Monday will be of the greatest moment in the industrial crisis that now confronts not only the nation, but all organized labor, is known from the fact that Jewell has cut short his stay in the east and will return to Chicago promptly to confer with his executive council.

Jewell was due to arrive in Chicago on Monday. Instead, simulatenously with the telegrams to the divisional committees, telegrams were also sent out to his executive council ordering them to be in Chicago tomorrow to meet Jewell. The council will go into executive session on Saturday to consider the results of Jewell's negotiations in the east, and lay plans for the meeting on Monday.

Hope that this meeting will bring peace ran high among labor men, though all were wary of comment.

The meeting which will determine what is believed to be the end of the strike is scheduled to take place almost at the same hour that Attorney General Daugherty will plead before Judge Wilkerson for making the injunction against the strikers permanent.

SEEK SEPARATE PEACE

D Washington, Sept. 7.—Behind an enveloping mantle of secrecy, leaders of the six striking railway shopcrafts have borrowed a leaf from John L. Lewis, book and are engaged today in a drive to secure a group of separate peace agreements with those executives who are known to constitute th e"moderate element" in the Association of Railway Executives.

Underly these efforts, is the belief that once a partial peace is established it will be only a question of time until, as in the case of the miners' strike the agreements can be extended to embrace a national peace.

Just how successful the efforts have been to date cannot be revealed, it was said, by labor spokesmen, who confirmed the fact that negotiations are once more under way. Nor would they reveal the identity of the railway executives concerned, other than to describe them as the "moderates" who have been hard hit by the mine weeks' strike of the shopcrafts.

An important meeting of the strike leaders was held in Baltimore late yesterday, it was learned today by the International News Service.

Spokesmen for the strike leaders asserted today that the "challenge" of Attorney General Daugherty, for the strike leaders to be in court in Chicago next Monday when the permanency of the Daugherty injunction is to be argued, will be accepted. They pointed out that the strikers policy committee had been summoned to Chicago for early next week for the very purpose of being on hand.

After deciding to meet in Washington the executives council of the American Federation of Labor, suddenly changed its plans today and an official anouncement was made at the headquarters of the federation here that the council would meet in Atlantic City on Saturday. The members of the council will canvass sentiment for a general strike in retaliation for the drastic Daugherty injunction.

There is little likelihood of any general strike, but if Judge Wilkerson makes his temporary restraining order permanent in its present form, it is likely there will be a concerted protest from all of organized labor.

This protest may take the form of a general strike of all labor for one day in order to impress upon the country the bitter resentment that organized labor, feels toward the government's action.

Hands of Daugherty Tied In Enforcing Injunction

Washington, Sept. 7.—The hands of Attorney General Daugnerty, in bringing prosecutions for alleged violations of "peace provisions" in the Chicago strike injunction, are tied by an act of Congress prohibiting the use of government funds for such purposes, it was charged today by labor leaders.

Congress, they said, specifically prohibited the department of justice from spending federal money in prosecution of unions or union officials on suits brought under anti-trust laws for acts held lawful under criminal law. The Chicago injunction, it was added was obtained on an allegation that a conspiracy existed among unions to violate anti-trust laws.

That contention was upheld by Senator Warren, Republican, of Wyoming, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee and co-author of department of justice appropriation bills and by Senator Owen, Democrat of Oklahoma, Democratic member of the committee. Both declared the funds they voted to the attorney general could not be used to prosecute violators of the injunction who were not guilty of violating some other criminal law.

The legislation was written into the appropriation bill approved by the president on June 1. It prohibited the use of anti-trust funds "in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours, or bettering of conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful." Labor leaders declared meetings of strikers, picketing, issuance of strike orders, pro strike speeches, and the like would be illegal acts "in furtherance" of union agreements.

Senator Warren declared the attorney general could not use funds to prosecute violators of the injunction who did not violate some other federal statute. While announcing he opposed this provision of the appropriation bill, Warren said it bound the attorney general with as much effect as any other section of the measure.

Senator Owen, however, declared the attorney general did not have authority to use federal money for prosecutions under any part of the injunction whether the act of violation was legal or illegal. If an illegal act were committed, Owen said, the prosecution would have to follow the natural course provided by federal laws and could not be brought with government funds under the injunction. He charged Daugherty was not even legally authorized to spend government money in seeking the injunction.

FOURTEEN ARRESTED; ALLEGE VIOLATION OF COURT INJUNCTION

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 7.—Fourteen women and seven men were arrested at Sayre today for violation of a court injunction.

Strikers attempted a ruse to beat the binding injunction. Knowing that they were restrained from trespassing on company property and doing picket duty, they turned the work over to their wives.

They were broken down by the weight of grief, and in need of attention most of the time. Both sisters went to the depot to meet their uncles and were much disappointed at their non-arrival.

The sisters and father of the boys completed arrangements for the funeral of the dead lad with the undertaker Thursday morning. The services will be held at the chapel in Woodland Cemetery Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be in charge of the Rev. E. W. Middleton, pastor of the First Reformed Church. Burial will be made in Woodland. The family is still hoping that the uncles of the boy from Kentucky, near Lexington, will be here in time for the services.

Physicians Thursday morning were encouraging over condition of Dorsey Nichols, the boy who is wounded at Espey Hospital. Although surgeons feel that it is impossible to operate or to probe for the bullet that is lodged somewhere near his chest yet, they are hoping that the bullet th t pierced his body lower down, missed the stomach and other vital organs. Surgeons characterized such a case as a "miracle" Thursday morning, but believed owing to the good condition of the youth, that such a case might have happened. The boy turned over and slept on his side Wednesday night for the first time since the shooting and awoke Thursday morning apparently brighter. He has a considerable appetite, say the attending physicians, especially for things he can not eat. Unless something unforeseen developed Warren Middleton, 16, who was shot in the arm during the Tuesday night affray will recover from the effects of his wound. He is eating three meals a day, and his general condition good. Surgeons said Thursday morning when they dressed the wound, that it looked good. They are hoping that nothing foreign sets in the wound.

Although numerous unfounded rumors, ranging from the story of the death of Dorsey Nichols, to the rumor that state troops were smuggled into the city Wednesday night, were being circulated on the streets Wednesday night and Thursday morning, none are based on fact. Local police feel capable of handling the policing situation without outside aid, and there will be no need for troops, they say.

No further action on the part of authorities has been forthcoming and none is necessary, county officials say. The case, authorities say, now rests upon the result of the coroner's inquest, for which the coroner is now preparing evidence and which will be held after the burial of the dead youth.

Logan Nichols, father of the slain youth, is said to have intimated Wednesday night that he would file an affidavit charging first degree murder against the sheriff and his deputies. In that case the charge would eventually reach the grand jury anyway. The usual official charge in similar cases is said to be manslaughter, although it is up to the grand jury to fix the degree of murder. should it hold an investigation, and in that investigation, it should develop that the officers were to blame. Attorneys have advised Nichols, it is said, that he has a clear case for civil action for damages, and he has intimated that he will bring such suit from the proper channels later on.

Although the streets were crowded with the curious Wednesday night, many people also visited the Whitmer undertaking establishment to view the body of Volney Nichols, who was killed as a result of the tragic Tuesday night shooting affair. Many more visited the scene of the shooting on the Wilmington pike, near the Frank Weaver home, there being a constant stream of automobiles along the pike. While Xenia was crowded with people, many farmers who lived in that neighborhood, the villages around Xenia were also wrought up over meagre news of the shooting and craving particulars of the affair. Pedestrians gathered in knots on the streets of the villages discussing the tragedy Wednesday night.

COAL SHORTAGE MAY BE PREVENTED

Washington, Sept. 7.—Anthracite coal shortage may be prevented for householders this winter, if anthracite operators agree today to a government proposal that existing contracts be ignored unless the coal delivered is to be used in domestic heating. This, and other questions dealing with measures to prevent suffering in homes of the people this winter will be taken up at a conference in Philadelphia late today between government officials and anthracite operators. On behalf of the government, Secretary Hoover and Commissioner Otchison of the I. C. C., will insist upon utmost cooperation by operators to facilitate smooth distribution of coal soon to be produced by resumption of operations in the Pennsylvania fields. Government officials are determined to use the powers of the interstate commerce commission, through priority and embargoes to assure plenty of coal for household use.

Railroad Reservoir Blown Up; Strikers Are Blamed

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 7.—The Beaver Run reservoir of the Lehigh Valley railroad, the largest water supply of the company, was blown up last night and millions of gallons of water released, which caused considerable damage to the company property, it became known here today.

Only meagre reports have reached here, but officials from this section were dispatched to the scene this morning.

Strikers are blamed for the dynamiting. Company detectives have been on the lookout for men who were reported to have concealed large quantities of dynamite on company property. The blowing out of the dam is believed to be a part of the plot.

BRITISH CABINET CONSIDERS NEAR EASTERN CRISIS

Britain To Propose New Treaty to Take Place of That of Sevres

London, Sept. 7.—With Premier Lloyd George presiding, the British cabinet met today to discuss the near east crisis, precipitated by the Turkish defeat of the Greeks and a relpy to the French war debt note. It is understood that Great Britain will propose a new treaty to take place of the treaty of Sevres.

The British reply to the French war debt note is expected to be conciliatory in view of the attitude of foreign office officials that there should be no controversy before the next meeting of the supreme council.

The British are now said to be inclined to accept the French attitude that the allies shall not intervene but shall allow the Turks and Greeks to fight it out and arrange their own armistice terms. This is suitable to the Turks but not to the Greeks who believed that the allies would get them better terms.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED

Columbus, Sept. 7.—State Highway Director Herrick announced today that D. W. McGrath, Columbus contractor, had been awarded the contract for the construction of six cottages at the Orient Farm for feeble minded. McGrath bid was $624.036 on the general contract and $15,800 on the sewage contract.

STRIKE CLOUDS BREAK AS PEACE SEEMS NEAR

RECTOR NOT OPTIMISTIC

Dublin, Sept. 7.—"I am going home with a sorry heart," said Monsignor Lavelle, Rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, in an interview today on the eve of his departure. "I am going home with the conviction that all we have done is fruitless effort. It pains beyond measure to think that such a glorious opportunity should be turned by the hands of her own sons into one one of Ireland's greatest tragedies."

FORCES OF TURKS ARE NOW CLOSE TO GREEK STRONGHOLD

General Tricupis Active Commander Opposing Turks Captured

London, Sept. 7.—The entire Greek army which has been operating south of Adana, on the Anatolian battle front, has been surrounded by Turks and captured, according to advices from Constantinople this evening.

London, Sept. 7.—Turkish forces on the offensive against the Greeks on the Anatolian battle front are advancing with astonishing rapidity and are only 21 miles from Smyrna, seat of Greek great headquarters, according to unconfirmed advices from Constantinople today. One hundred thousand Greeks, not counting the civilians are in flight.

General Tricupis, active Greek commander in the field, was reported to have been captured.

The Greeks attempted a stond on the northern end of the front and succeeded in annihilating a Turkish cavalry regiment.

Advices from Athens deny that former Premier Venizelos is returning to that city. Venizelos was in control of the Greek government at the end of the war when the allies compelled King Constantine to abdicate. Later when Constantine returned as the result of a popular plebescite in his favor, Venizelos became an exile himself.

Constantinople dispatches say that the Greeks have evacuated four more towns—Bairamitch, Exine, Aivadjik and Higha. The Turks are reported to control virtually all the Asiatic coast of the Dardanelles.

CALL FOR VOTE ON SETTLEMENT PLAN IS SENT

Shopcraft's Policy Committee Will Meet Monday In Chicago.

MAY END WALKOUT

Body Has Power to Put End to Trouble Over Nation

Chicago, Sept. 7.—The dark clouds of the destructive labor-capital war of shopmen and railroads which threatened to involve all railroad brotherhods and even go as far as to bring about a general labor strike, were split with a widening rift of peace today.

Official call for a meeting of the shopcraft's policy committee of 90 to vote on the proposed plan of settlement had gone to the members and decks were being cleared for action. The meeting will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Sheridan-Plaza hotel here.

This policy committee which consistes of 90 men, representing three divisions throughout the United States, has the power to accept propositions which will end the national railroad strike.

That the meeting on Monday will be of the greatest moment in the industrial crisis that now confronts not only the nation, but all organized labor, is known from the fact that Jewell has cut short his stay in the east and will return to Chicago promptly to confer with his executive council.

Jewell was due to arrive in Chicago on Monday. Instead, simulatenously with the telegrams to the divisional committees, telegrams were also sent out to his executive council ordering them to be in Chicago tomorrow to meet Jewell. The council will go into executive session on Saturday to consider the results of Jewell's negotiations in the east, and lay plans for the meeting on Monday.

Hope that this meeting will bring peace ran high among labor men, though all were wary of comment.

The meeting which will determine what is believed to be the end of the strike is scheduled to take place almost at the same hour that Attorney General Daugherty will plead before Judge Wilkerson for making the injunction against the strikers permanent.

SEEK SEPARATE PEACE

D Washington, Sept. 7.—Behind an enveloping mantle of secrecy, leaders of the six striking railway shopcrafts have borrowed a leaf from John L. Lewis, book and are engaged today in a drive to secure a group of separate peace agreements with those executives who are known to constitute th e"moderate element" in the Association of Railway Executives.

Underly these efforts, is the belief that once a partial peace is established it will be only a question of time until, as in the case of the miners' strike the agreements can be extended to embrace a national peace.

Just how successful the efforts have been to date cannot be revealed, it was said, by labor spokesmen, who confirmed the fact that negotiations are once more under way. Nor would they reveal the identity of the railway executives concerned, other than to describe them as the "moderates" who have been hard hit by the mine weeks' strike of the shopcrafts.

An important meeting of the strike leaders was held in Baltimore late yesterday, it was learned today by the International News Service.

Spokesmen for the strike leaders asserted today that the "challenge" of Attorney General Daugherty, for the strike leaders to be in court in Chicago next Monday when the permanency of the Daugherty injunction is to be argued, will be accepted. They pointed out that the strikers policy committee had been summoned to Chicago for early next week for the very purpose of being on hand.

After deciding to meet in Washington the executives council of the American Federation of Labor, suddenly changed its plans today and an official anouncement was made at the headquarters of the federation here that the council would meet in Atlantic City on Saturday. The members of the council will canvass sentiment for a general strike in retaliation for the drastic Daugherty injunction.

There is little likelihood of any general strike, but if Judge Wilkerson makes his temporary restraining order permanent in its present form, it is likely there will be a concerted protest from all of organized labor.

This protest may take the form of a general strike of all labor for one day in order to impress upon the country the bitter resentment that organized labor, feels toward the government's action.

Hands of Daugherty Tied In Enforcing Injunction

Washington, Sept. 7.—The hands of Attorney General Daugnerty, in bringing prosecutions for alleged violations of "peace provisions" in the Chicago strike injunction, are tied by an act of Congress prohibiting the use of government funds for such purposes, it was charged today by labor leaders.

Congress, they said, specifically prohibited the department of justice from spending federal money in prosecution of unions or union officials on suits brought under anti-trust laws for acts held lawful under criminal law. The Chicago injunction, it was added was obtained on an allegation that a conspiracy existed among unions to violate anti-trust laws.

That contention was upheld by Senator Warren, Republican, of Wyoming, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee and co-author of department of justice appropriation bills and by Senator Owen, Democrat of Oklahoma, Democratic member of the committee. Both declared the funds they voted to the attorney general could not be used to prosecute violators of the injunction who were not guilty of violating some other criminal law.

The legislation was written into the appropriation bill approved by the president on June 1. It prohibited the use of anti-trust funds "in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours, or bettering of conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful." Labor leaders declared meetings of strikers, picketing, issuance of strike orders, pro strike speeches, and the like would be illegal acts "in furtherance" of union agreements.

Senator Warren declared the attorney general could not use funds to prosecute violators of the injunction who did not violate some other federal statute. While announcing he opposed this provision of the appropriation bill, Warren said it bound the attorney general with as much effect as any other section of the measure.

Senator Owen, however, declared the attorney general did not have authority to use federal money for prosecutions under any part of the injunction whether the act of violation was legal or illegal. If an illegal act were committed, Owen said, the prosecution would have to follow the natural course provided by federal laws and could not be brought with government funds under the injunction. He charged Daugherty was not even legally authorized to spend government money in seeking the injunction.

FOURTEEN ARRESTED; ALLEGE VIOLATION OF COURT INJUNCTION

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 7.—Fourteen women and seven men were arrested at Sayre today for violation of a court injunction.

Strikers attempted a ruse to beat the binding injunction. Knowing that they were restrained from trespassing on company property and doing picket duty, they turned the work over to their wives.

TOO LITTLE OR TOO MUCH; WHICH IS IT

Toledo, Sept. 7.—Too little or too much affection is responsible for the majority of divorces in Lucas County, records show.

"The married folks don't seem to match well here," one official said. "The cold-blooded man gets the hot-blooded girl and vice versa.

One of the most common reasons given for incompatibility, the Common Pleas Court Judges say, is "when he (the husband) came home in the evening I wanted to sit on his lap and love him, but he always told me to quit being a baby and let him read the sport pages."

Judge Byron T. Ritchie, of the Common Pleas bench, the most picturesque of Toledo's old-fashioned barristers, has decided that men and women ought to be more careful about deciding on marriage.

"They should take each other's temperature first," he advises.

One defendant in a divorce suit recently declared: "She is so cold that frozen ice is soft in comparison. I couldn't kiss her unless I came home with a present She was away from me three months visiting relatives and when I met her at the station to welcome her back she shook my hand and asked me if it had rained much here."

FORMER DEPUTY TREASURER SEEKS COUNTY OFFICE

Elbert L. Babb, hardware meechant and former deputy county treasurer under the late Treasurer J. H. McVay, expects to thow his hat in the ring for election for the short term as Treasurer with the filing of petitions he is now circulating with the board of elections before midnight, Friday.

If the candidate obtains 136 signatures to his nominating petitions his name will be placed on the ballots for the regular election November 7, as an Independent Republican candidate. He yill not oppose Frank L. Jackson, Republican or Harry A. Higgins, Democratic candidates for the regular term of the office, but will seek election for the unexpired term of J. H. McVay from the time of the regular election until the new treasurer assumes the office August 6, 1923.

Mr. Babb initiated his candidacy on the basis that the county commissioners only appointed the present treasurer, Mrs. Carrie L. Faulkner, to fill the period from the time of the death of Treasurer McVay until the time of the regular election. He holds that under the law the commissioners can only make the appointment for that period, tnd that on the dty of the regular election Nivember 7, they must either reappoint the incumbent or make a new selection if none has been elected for the intervening period. If his petitions are properly signed and he is elected at the regan appointment, and he will automatically assame his duties as Treasurer on the day following the election.

The action means that voters in Greene County at the November election will vote for two candidates for Treasurer. If they wish to vote for Babb as the candidate for the short term, they can do so, but they can also vote for Jackson or Higgins as candidates for the regular election, the action will forestall Babb when his short term expires next August. Should Babb be elected he will hold office as Treasurer for about nine months.

Although only 136 signatures are required, the new candidate expects to have about 175 names when the petitions are filed. The 136 names represent one per cent of the voters at the last regular election. The new candidacy is another development in the treasurers office situation that began when J. H. McVay, appointed Babb, as deputy. At the death of Treasurer McVay, the commissioners appointed Mrs. Faulkner. Babb promptly resigned as deputy and the new treasurer named Lawrence McKee to succeed him. Now Babb has an opportunity to get back into the office as Treasurer, which would mean another entire change of regime.

POLICE OFFICER SUSPENDED FROM DUTY TEMPORARILY

Patrolman Charles Simms of the Xenia police department, who was picked up by Sheriff L. Funderburgh and taken with officers who figured in Tuesday night's tragic shooting affray on the Wilmington pike, will not be on duty until after agitation regarding the shooting has blown over.

Simms was ordered to go home late Tuesday night after the shooting, by Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, and his temporary suspension from duty was continued in effect by Chief of Police M. E. Graham, in spite of the fact that Simms' statement, borne out by witnesses, is that he did not fire a shot during the shooting melee, alhough he was all the time open to bullets from the crowd of boys, had they actually been highwaymen.

Although Simms was summarily removed from duty by the action of the Prosecutor, no steps have been taken to remove the Sheriff or his Deputies from their official positions. Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson said Thursday he had no authority to remove the sheriff from office. Judge M. J. Hartley, who was consulted Thursday when Judge R. L. Gowdy could not be reached, said one form of removal was to present a petition to the common pleas judge signed by twenty per cent of the electorate. There are others methods, with which he is not familiar, he said, including the presentation of a petition asking removal, to the Governor.

Rumors of action taken to remove Sheriff Funderburg from office which were circulated Thursday could not be confirmed. The office of the Governor at Columbus denied that a petition asking his removal had been sent there.

W. S. Bundy, secretary to Governor Davis said that the usual method of procedure in such cases was through the County Common Pleas Court. The other method he said was to petition the governor. Such petition he said must contain the names of six per cent of the voters at the last general election. Only in this way he said, can the Governor take action except in case of a riot.

Local officials, meanwhile are doing nothing, pending the result of the coroner's verdict.

WILL DO WELL TO HEED OLD SAYING

Carcassone. Sept. 7.—"See Carcassone before you die" is an old French proverb which American visitors to France will do well to heed. Destined to command the ways of communication between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, Carcassone, one of the greatest curiosities in the world, is built about midway between the Pyrenees and the Black Mountains on the ruins of an ancient Roman fortress.

It is not only a fortified castle but a city entirely fortified, high on the hills overlooking the beautiful Aude Valley. Its double walls are almost a compete course of instruction in the art of fortification from the fifth century to the seventeenth.

In the first place it was an "oppidum gaulois" and then a Roman castle. The Visigoths came and made it a fortress, which they kept until the year 725, when the Moors from Spain chased them out. The Counts of Toulouse then made it their strong hold until 1240 when Saint Louis besieged and took it. He completed its system of defense and rebuilt the ramparts and a new fortress on the opposite side of the Aude. Several more centuries of struggle and the glorious history of the fortress was ended. During the late war Geman prisoners occupied it.

There are 1,000 inhabitants inside the two great walls with their houses and shops just as in an ordinary village, centered about the old cathedral of St. Nazaire, where one can see the gargoyle known as "The Tiger" in which Clemenceau, who represents Carcassone in the French Chamber found himself.

Every Summer the Comedie Francaise gives a series of productions in a grassy amphitheatre under these historic walls, against the fifty-three towers and embattlements of this unique stronghold. To see Hamlet on the ramparts on a still moonlight night in July, or McBeth descending the narrow stairs from the Bishop's tower is to recapture the romance of the Middle Ages.

FORMER DEPUTY TREASURER SEEKS COUNTY OFFICE

Elbert L. Babb, hardware merchant and former deputy county treasurer under the late Treasurer J. H. McVay, expects to thow his hat in the ring for election for the short term as Treasurer with the filing of petitions he is now circulating with the board of elections before midnight, Friday.

If the candidate obtains 136 signatures to his nominating petitions his name will be placed on the ballots for the regular election November 7, as an Independent Republican candidate. He yill not oppose Frank L. Jackson, Republican or Harry A. Higgins, Democratic candidates for the regular term of the office, but will seek election for the unexpired term of J. H. McVay from the time of the regular election until the new treasurer assumes the office August 6, 1923.

Mr. Babb initiated his candidacy on the basis that the county commissioners only appointed the present treasurer, Mrs. Carrie L. Faulkner, to fill the period from the time of the death of Treasurer McVay until the time of the regular election. He holds that under the law the commissioners can only make the appointment for that period, tnd that on the dty of the regular election Nivember 7, they must either reappoint the incumbent or make a new selection if none has been selected for the intervening period. If his petitions are properly signed and he is elected at the regan appointment, and he will automatically assume his duties as Treasurer on the day following the election.

The action means that voters in Greene County at the November election will vote for two candidates for Treasurer. If they wish to vote for Babb as the candidate for the short term, they can do so, but they can also vote for Jackson or Higgins as candidates for the regular election, the action will forestall Babb when his short term expires next August. Should Babb be elected he will hold office as Treasurer for about nine months.

Although only 136 signatures are required, the new candidate expects to have about 175 names when the petitions are filed. The 136 names represent one per cent of the voters at the last regular election. The new candidacy is another development in the treasurers office situation that began when J. H. McVay, appointed Babb, as deputy. At the death of Treasurer McVay, the commissioners appointed Mrs. Faulkner. Babb promptly resigned as deputy and the new treasurer named Lawrence McKee to succeed him. Now Babb has an opportunity to get back into the office as Treasurer, which would mean another entire change of regime.

POLICE OFFICER SUSPENDED FROM DUTY TEMPORARILY

Patrolman Charles Simms of the Xenia police department, who was picked up by Sheriff L. Funderburgh and taken with officers who figured in Tuesday night's tragic shooting affray on the Wilmington pike, will not be on duty until after agitation regarding the shooting has blown over.

Simms was ordered to go home late Tuesday night after the shooting, by Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, and his temporary suspension from duty was continued in effect by Chief of Police M. E. Graham, in spite of the fact that Simms' statement, borne out by witnesses, is that he did not fire a shot during the shooting melee, alhough he was all the time open to bullets from the crowd of boys, had they actually been highwaymen.

Although Simms was summarily removed from duty by the action of the Prosecutor, no steps have been taken to remove the Sheriff or his Deputies from their official positions. Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson said Thursday he had no authority to remove the sheriff from office. Judge M. J. Hartley, who was consulted Thursday when Judge R. L. Gowdy could not be reached, said one form of removal was to present a petition to the common pleas judge signed by twenty per cent of the electorate. There are others methods, with which he is not familiar, he said, including the presentation of a petition askng removal, to the Governor.

Rumors of action taken to remove Sheriff Funderburg from office which were circulated Thursday could not be confirmed. The office of the Governor at Columbus denied that a petition asking his removal had been sent there.

W. S. Bundy, secretary to Governor Davis said that the usual method of procedure in such cases was through the County Common Pleas Court. The other method he said was to petition the governor. Such petition he said must contain the names of six per cent of the voters at the last general election. Only in this way he said, can the Governor take action except in case of a riot.

Local officials, meanwhile are doing nothing, pending the result of the coroner's verdict.

WILL DO WELL TO HEED OLD SAYING

Carcassone, Sept. 7.—"See Carcassone before you die" is an old French proverb which American visitors to France will do well to heed. Destined to command the ways of communication between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, Carcassone, one of the greatest curiosities in the world, is built about midway between the Pyrenees and the Black Mountains on the ruins of an ancient Roman fortress.

It is not only a fortified castle but a city entirely fortified, high on the hills overlooking the beautiful Aude Valley. Its double walls are almost a compete course of instruction in the art of fortification from the fifth century to the seventeenth.

In the first place it was an "oppidum gaulois" and then a Roman castle. The Visigoths came and made it a fortress, which they kept until the year 725, when the Moors from Spain chased them out. The Counts of Toulouse then made it their strong hold until 1240 when Saint Louis besieged and took it. He completed its system of defense and rebuilt the ramparts and a new fortress on the opposite side of the Aude. Several more centuries of struggle and the glorious history of the fortress was ended. During the late war Geman prisoners occupied it.

There are 1,000 inhabitants inside the two great walls with their houses and shops just as in an ordinary village, centered about the old cathedral of St. Nazaire, where one can see the gargoyle known as "The Tiger" in which Clemenceau, who represents Carcassone in the French Chamber found himself.

Every Summer the Comedie Francaise gives a series of productions in a grassy amphitheatre under these historic walls, against the fifty-three towers and embattlements of this unique stronghold. To see Hamlet on the ramparts on a still moonlight night in July, or McBeth descending the narrow stairs from the Bishop's tower is to recapture the romance of the Middle Ages.

THE SCHOOL ARMY ENTRAINS.

Within a few days the grand army of school children will begin its annual advance. How successful it will be in its attack upon education depends not only upon its own efforts and those of its leaders, but also upon the home support it receives.

The youthful warriors will need proper nourishment, clothing, supplies and equipment, the most advantageous surroundings possible and the continued interest and encouragement of their elders just as truly as did the lads overseas in the recent war.

We "kept the home fires burning" for our soldiers during the war; we watched their progress day in and day out, we backed them to a finish in every undertaking. We knew the discipline and the routine were good for them and essential to victory and refrained from interference accordingly, and these are some of the chief reasons why the war was won.

The school army does not face the same physical hardships and dangers as did the soldiers in the fiercer conflict, but battles will be no less vital and its victories no less dependent upon the mental, moral and physical backing of the home.

Education is a companion which no misfortune can alienate, no crime destroy, no despotism enslave. At home a friend, abroad an introduction, in solitude a solace, in society an ornament. Garfield said: "Next in importance to freedom and justice is popular reaction, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained." In these days of public education, the parent who sends his son out into the world uneducated, defrauds him and is a criminal. The educated child is like the odor from a lovely flower, as compared with the uneducated one, which is often like a noxious weed which contaminates all about it.

Millions of men have thanked God daily for the education that gave them their chance in the world to forge ahead. In comparison, how pitiful the unlearned man who has to hew and delve at anything he can get to do to keep soul and body together.

Tis education that takes the common mind and makes of it an uncommon mind. Education, more than anything else in life, leads to happiness and prosperity. Encourage your children to appreciate learning and their school advantages.

Ten times more important it is to give them education than to give them money.

THE HARD-COAL PEACE.

The great hard-coal strike came to its end on its 155th day. It has cut down the production of anthracite for next winter's use by about 30,000,000 tons. Where we burned three tons of hard coal last year we will burn no more than two tons this year. From the first freezes and on until the grass shows green next spring we will be on a shoveful-to-furnace basis.

The settlement is described as a "compromise." In a sense it is. The miners go back to work on their wartime-wage basis. The contracts will remain in force until March 31, 1923, with provisions for their extension until "August 1, 1923, or March 31, 1924." The miners had insisted on a formal contract until March 31, 1924. To the extent that they have taken a provision for extensions until that date instead of a formal contract, the miners have yielded and "compromised."

The hard-coal settlement makes the miners' victory complete. They retain everything they had last March when they walked out. They had asked for a wage increase; but that demand was for "trading" purposes only and little has been heard of it since the first weeks of the strike.

The main aims of the miners were the retention of the wartime-wage scale and the defeat of all arbitration proposals. They have won these aims in the hard-coal area just as they did in the soft-coal fields. In the bituminous field the agreements come to an end next March 31. In the anthracite area arrangements have been made for the continuance of production while the next wage battle is being fought.

NEWCASTLE INCIDENT MAY BE OPENING OF SHIPPING WAR.

The incident created by the action of the British Government in canceling the exequaturs of the two American consular agents at Newcastle-on-Tyne for alleged improper activities in behalf of American shipping, has not been closed by the removal of the agents from British posts.

Information now in the hands of this Government, it was announced at the White House fails to substantiate the British charges. An exhaustive investigation is under way, and in the meantime the consulate at Newcastle will remain closed indefinitely. Fred C. Slater, the accused Consul, has been transferred to Corruna, Spain, as Vice Consul Russell M. Brooks to Dresden, Germany. There is no indication the State Department intends to discipline them.

Although officials were reluctant to discuss the affair pending the result of the investigation, no secret was made of the fact that American consular agents were expected to do everything in their power to promote American business and American shipping. They were in foreign ports for that purpose and would be considered remiss in their duties if they failed to exert themselves in behalf of American shipping. The State Department, it is understood, is in possession of virtual denials from both Consul Slater and Vice Consul Brooks that they had refused to "vise passports unless persons applying to them for that purpose agreed to travel on American ships."

There are indications that the incident may be the opening gun by Great Britain of a shipping war, and retaliation may follow on the part of the United States. Shipping men are authority for the statement that British agents in the United States are not lacking in enterprise in behalf of British shipping out of American ports.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

GETTING RID OF THE DOUBLE CHIN

A beauty specialist recently remarked that there was no excuse for a double chin. I had to agree with her, since I know that a double chin comes from over-eating or from a careless manner of carrying the body.

Of course, the muscle laxness that comes with old age, will cause some natural sagging and if the person is accumulating fat over the whole body the sagged skin will soon be filled out into a pouch, forming a roll under the original chin.

The first step toward ridding oneself of this disfigurement should be a general reduction to the proper weight and ice rubs to tighten up the muscles.

A local treatment that will also help is one in which the flesh is kneaded with the fingers as if it were soft dough; this is followed by a massake, beginning at the throat and stroking out to the tip of the chin. To do this use the palm of either hand and strike with a light pressure after the manner of using a flat iron on cloth.

An exercise that will help much is accomplished by dropping the jaw a little and throwing back the head as far as possible without strain. Shut the mouth, open and shut several times—you can feel the pull along the tendons. Now roll the head around and around the shoulders, to the right in back, to the left and front again. This will also chase off some of the fat over the throat.

Whether you use diet, exercise, massage or all three—the most important thing to remember is to rub ice over the undersirable second chin. Ten minutes rubbing is not too much—this treatment will harden the flesh so there will be a good throat line after the superfluous flesh has been consumed.

Anxious:—Vaseline will be all right for you to use on the hair to relieve its dryness.

A Reader:—I should enjoy having the cricket in my house so I cannot understand why his singing would make you nervous. It would make me think of all the delightful old tales in which crickets had figured. There is neither good nor bad luck attached to such a visit so I should forget that silly superstition if I were you.

Stenographer:—I cannot print the eye-lash tonic at this time, but I shall be glad to mail you the formula on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

To Mrs. B—I am offering the above suggestion in reply to your request for the cream and astringent formulas.

Dimples:—Sometimes you do not see the effects of dieting until you have continued the diet for several or more weeks. This is because the system is making changes which do not count as so many pounds. You are probably adapting yourself to your new diet and clearing the system and you will soon find there is a difference in weight. From then on the reduction will continue.

You should always chew your food thoroughly or it will lead to a chronic state of indigestion.

HELPING OUT.

Today I helped a pair of gents whose sorrows made me sigh; to one I handed twenty cents, and fed the other pie. When they departed from my home they smiled at me and said, "May blessings rest upon your dome until your days are sped." The blessings of a pair of bums may have no market price, and yet, when tranquil evening comes, they cut some little ice. For then I view the day that's spent, with retrospective eyes, and having helped a busted gent—the knowledge is a prize! When evening's priceless shadows fall it makes one's bosom bleed, if he, reflecting, can't recall one kind and friendly deed. One day I give a bo a cup of sparkling Adam's ale; the next I soothe a wailing pup that has a wounded tail. To those oppressed by deadly fears my cheer-up rede I preach; anon I dry a widow's tears, if haply she's a peach. One cannot turn upon his heel, to view the day's parade, but he will see a chance to deal some little slice of aid. And when the gloaming starts to gloam, it rids your soul of care, to place your hands upon your dome and paw the blessings there.

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

..... IT SHALL BE DONE .....

I know of a man whose favorite phrase, when a request was made of him, was: "It shall be done."

And it was usually done, too. His mind and make up were schooled toward getting things done.

Your accomplishments take upon themselves a color—the color of your thoughts!

The very first processi n getting things done is to think that you can do them. The next step is to put legs and arms and eyes and fingers to work to back this thought of yours.

The inspiring figures of the world are those who believe that the thing they want done CAN be done. Then they say to themselves: IT SHALL be done.

Lieut. Rowan, who took the message to Garcia, merely listened to instructions, saluted and then delivered the message. He didn't ask where he might find General Garcia or whether it would be a long journey or one filled with difficulties or dangers. He didn't ask for "expense money" or an "advance in salary." He said nothing of the sort. But in his heart he told himself that it should be done. And it was!

Only the other day, the Congress of the United States rewarded this brave officer with a promotion that he should have had years ago. But this is in line with history. The world's great men are not taken care of very well—until they are no more in flesh and blood.

Men's honors, however are of little moment, whereas the living satisfaction of service well performed, is a well of water springing up through the walls of one's heart to keep one's spirit fresh and vital so long as he shall breath.

I like the spirit in a boy's camp which I am in the habit of visiting. The "Chief" asks a boy to do a certain thing. There is no questioning. The boy simply replies, "Check"—and then goes and does the thing he is told to do.

And he takes particular pride in being ASKED to render this service.

The next time you are asked to do anything, do not question, do not whine, do not backstep—but in your heart at least, reply: It shall be done!

THE SCHOOL ARMY ENTRAINS.

Within a few days the grand army of school children will begin its annual advance. How successful it will be in its attack upon education depends not only upon its own efforts and those of its leaders, but also upon the home support it receives.

The youthful warriors will need proper nourishment, clothing, supplies and equipment, the most advantageous surroundings possible and the continued interest and encouragement of their elders just as truly as did the lads overseas in the recent war.

We "kept the home fires burning" for our soldiers during the war; we watched their progress day in and day out, we backed them to a finish in every undertaking. We knew the discipline and the routine were good for them and essential to victory and refrained from interference accordingly, and these are some of the chief reasons why the war was won.

The school army does not face the same physical hardships and dangers as did the soldiers in the fiercer conflict, but battles will be no less vital and its victories no less dependent upon the mental, moral and physical backing of the home.

Education is a companion which no misfortune can alienate, no crime destroy, no despotism enslave. At home a friend, abroad an introduction, in solitude a solace, in society an ornament. Garfield said: "Next in importance to freedom and justice is popular reaction, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained." In these days of public education, the parent who sends his son out into the world uneducated, defrauds him and is a criminal. The educated child is like the odor from a lovely flower, as compared with the uneducated one, which is often like a noxious weed which contaminates all about it.

Millions of men have thanked God daily for the education that gave them their chance in the world to forge ahead. In comparison, how pitiful the unlearned man who has to hew and delve at anything he can get to do to keep soul and body together.

Tis education that takes the common mind and makes of it an uncommon mind. Education, more than anything else in life, leads to happiness and prosperity. Encourage your children to appreciate learning and their school advantages.

Ten times more important it is to give them education than to give them money.

THE HARD-COAL PEACE.

The great hard-coal strike came to its end on its 155th day. It has cut down the production of anthracite for next winter's use by about 30,000,000 tons. Where we burned three tons of hard coal last year we will burn no more than two tons this year. From the first freezes and on until the grass shows green next spring we will be on a shoveful-to-furnace basis.

The settlement is described as a "compromise." In a sense it is. The miners go back to work on their wartime-wage basis. The contracts will remain in force until March 31, 1923, with provisions for their extension until "August 1, 1923, or March 31, 1924." The miners had insisted on a formal contract until March 31, 1924. To the extent that they have taken a provision for extensions until that date instead of a formal contract, the miners have yielded and "compromised."

The hard-coal settlement makes the miners' victory complete. They retain everything they had last March when they walked out. They had asked for a wage increase; but that demand was for "trading" purposes only and little has been heard of it since the first weeks of the strike.

The main aims of the miners were the retention of the wartime-wage scale and the defeat of all arbitration proposals. They have won these aims in the hard-coal area just as they did in the soft-coal fields. In the bituminous field the agreements come to an end next March 31. In the anthracite area arrangements have been made for the continuance of production while the next wage battle is being fought.

NEWCASTLE INCIDENT MAY BE OPENING OF SHIPPING WAR.

The incident created by the action of the British Government in canceling the exequaturs of the two American consular agents at Newcastle-on-Tyne for alleged improper activities in behalf of American shipping, has not been closed by the removal of the agents from British posts.

Information now in the hands of this Government, it was announced at the White House fails to substantiate the British charges. An exhaustive investigation is under way, and in the meantime the consulate at Newcastle will remain closed indefinitely. Fred C. Slater, the accused Consul, has been transferred to Corruna, Spain, as Vice Consul Russell M. Brooks to Dresden, Germany. There is no indication the State Department intends to discipline them.

Although officials were reluctant to discuss the affair pending the result of the investigation, no secret was made of the fact that American consular agents were expected to do everything in their power to promote American business and American shipping. They were in foreign ports for that purpose and would be considered remiss in their duties if they failed to exert themselves in behalf of American shipping. The State Department, it is understood, is in possession of virtual denials from both Consul Slater and Vice Consul Brooks that they had refused to "vise passports unless persons applying to them for that purpose agreed to travel on American ships."

There are indications that the incident may be the opening gun by Great Britain of a shipping war, and retaliation may follow on the part of the United States. Shipping men are authority for the statement that British agents in the United States are not lacking in enterprise in behalf of British shipping out of American ports.

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

GETTING RID OF THE DOUBLE CHIN

A beauty specialist recently remarked that there was no excuse for a double chin. I had to agree with her, since I know that a double chin comes from over-eating or from a careless manner of carrying the body.

Of course, the muscle laxness that comes with old age, will cause some natural sagging and if the person is accumulating fat over the whole body the sagged skin will soon be filled out into a pouch, forming a roll under the original chin.

The first step toward ridding oneself of this disfigurement should be a general reduction to the proper weight and ice rubs to tighten up the muscles.

A local treatment that will also help is one in which the flesh is kneaded with the fingers as if it were soft dough; this is followed by a massake, beginning at the throat and stroking out to the tip of the chin. To do this use the palm of either hand and strike with a light pressure after the manner of using a flat iron on cloth.

An exercise that will help much is accomplished by dropping the jaw a little and throwing back the head as far as possible without strain. Shut the mouth, open and shut several times—you can feel the pull along the tendons. Now roll the head around and around the shoulders, to the right in back, to the left and front again. This will also chase off some of the fat over the throat.

Whether you use diet, exercise, massage or all three—the most important thing to remember is to rub ice over the undersirable second chin. Ten minutes rubbing is not too much—this treatment will harden the flesh so there will be a good throat line after the superfluous flesh has been consumed.

Anxious:—Vaseline will be all right for you to use on the hair to relieve its dryness.

A Reader:—I should enjoy having the cricket in my house so I cannot understand why his singing would make you nervous. It would make me think of all the delightful old tales in which crickets had figured. There is neither good nor bad luck attached to such a visit so I should forget that silly superstition if I were you.

Stenographer:—I cannot print the eye-lash tonic at this time, but I shall be glad to mail you the formula on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

To Mrs. B—I am offering the above suggestion in reply to your request for the cream and astringent formulas.

Dimples:—Sometimes you do not see the effects of dieting until you have continued the diet for several or more weeks. This is because the system is making changes which do not count as so many pounds. You are probably adapting yourself to your new diet and clearing the system and you will soon find there is a difference in weight. From then on the reduction will continue.

You should always chew your food thoroughly or it will lead to a chronic state of indigestion.

GENERAL MEETING OF EPISCOPALIANS NOW UNDER WAY

Portland, Ore., Sept. 7.—Nearly 5,000 Episcopalians, representing every diocese in the United States and a few in foreign countries, participated in a great mass meeting here yesterday.

The meeting marked the opening of the forty seventh triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, as a whiterobed choir of 250 voices marched down the main aisles of the Portland municipal auditorium, singing the Hallelujah choruses of the Church to the accompaniment of a mammonth pipe organ. When the singers had filled the centre aisles of the building they parted ranks and continued their music, while the 110 members of the House of Bishops marched down the aisles between them and took their places on the platform. The choir followed to the rostrum. It was a most impressive spectacle. The bishops were dressed in their full Episcopal robes their procession being led by the Most Rev. Danial Sylvester Tuttle, of St. Louis, Mo., the presiding bisop of the Church. The other bishops followed in the order of their seniority.

PRAYER BY BOSTON MAN

Then was said Morning Prayer by the Rev. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church Boston, the president of the House of Deputies. The lessons were read by Dr. Henry Anstice, of New York City, secretary of the House of Deputies, and Dr. J. F. Nelson, secretary of the House of Bishops. The sermon was delivered by the Right Rev. Edward T. Lines, Bishop of the Oiocese of Newark, Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner, of Oregon, was master of ceremonies.

Hundreds of Episcopalians partook of Holy Communion yesterday in a series of communion services which were held in every Episcopal Church and mission house in the city. The Houses of Bishops and Deputies celebrated their cooperate communion in one church, while the delegates to the triennial of the Woman's Auxiliary made their communion in another church.

SOCIAL FETE LAST NIGHT

One of the claborate social events of the general convention, which will continue until September 23, was set for last night when the visiting bishops and the women accompanying them were entertained at Bishop croft, the Episcopal residence in Oregon. Those on the receiving line were Bishop Tuttle and his sister, Mrs. Sarah R. White, of St. Louis; Bishop and Mrs. Thomas F. Gailorr, of New York City, and Bishop and Mrs. Sumner, of Oregon.

The convention got down to business today when the various committees made their reports and when the proposed changes in the prayer book came before the convention officially.

NURSE FREE ON BOND WHILE AWAITING TRIAL

Kansas City, Mo., September 7.—Marie "Peggy" Beal, Dayton, (Ohio) nurse, slayer of Frank Warren Anderson, scion of an old Philadelphia family, is free on bond, pleading "not guilty" of second degree murder, the charge filed against her by Cameron Orr, prosecutor, yesterday. She appeared before John George, Justice of the Peace.

"Peggy Beal is alone, friendless and without a cent in the world," George Birmingham, her attorney told the Court.

"Her wealth is in the little pocketbook in her hand—a $1 bill and a few pennies—but she wishes to face trial. She desires to tell her story. Peggy would rather destroy herself—will destroy herself, in fact—if she cannot be vindicated in the eyes of the public."

Mr. Birmingham's plea earned a low bond of $5,000. This Mr. Birmingham gave and the prisoner was released pending preliminary hearing before Justice George September 16.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE STARTS EXTENSION WORK SEPTEMBER 16

Beginning Saturday morning, September 16, Antioch College will begin its extension program by offering two courses to the general public, English Literature and Biology.

The Literature course, which meets at nine o'clock, will be under the direction of Mr. Lincoln R. Gibbs, formerly head of the English Department at the University of Pittsburgh and Mr. L. M. Johnson, who comes to Antioch after a year of post-graduate work at Harvard, preceded by special work in English at the University of Oregon, where he took his degree.

The course in Biology will be conducted by Dr. O. L. Inman and Prof. Charles A. Nosker, both excellently trained in this field.

These courses, while of interest to the general public, are especially designed to meet the needs of teachers. They will be counted toward graduation from Antioch, provided the student is accepted as a candidate for a degree, and completes at least two years of resident work this being required of all candidates for graduation. A nominal fee for registration will be charged, and tuition will be very low. Each course will consist of twenty weeks work, one recitation per week.

These courses are only the beginning of Antioch's extension work. If a sufficient number ask for other extension courses, arrangements will be made to offer them.

Before Baby Comes

THERE are thousands of expectant mothers who undergo much useless suffering for months before, as well as at the moment when delivery occurs. These months of suffering, with nerves and vital organs weakened, leave their effect upon the child. An eminent physician found the way to stop much of this unnecessary suffering—the same easy way which thousands of mothers have used for three generations.

Mrs. Walter S. Hadley, Bridgeport, Ind., says: "Before my little boy came I was so paralyzed in my hips and limbs I could hardly walk, and some days after a little extra exertion I couldn't walk a step. I felt it coming on this time; in fact, I could hardly get up when I sat down, but now, after using one bottle of Mother's Friend, I am so much better. I feel that I almost owe my life to Mother's Friend."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It penetrates remarkably, permitting the easier relaxation and distension of muscles, nerves, tissues and ligaments, and their constant easier readjustment during expectancy and at child-birth. Have no more fear or dread, mother! Start using "Mother's Friend" now—the sooner the better.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor, because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. For three generations "Mother's Friend" has relieved expectant mothers of much useless suffering. Mother! you must avoid mere greases and useless substitutes. Begin using "Mother's Friend" today. It is sold at drug stores—everywhere.

Indomitable Durant

It is said in automotive circles that W. C. Durant accomplishes what he plans; to him difficulties are so many spurs to greater effort, making one get on the faster.

He is the man who made the Buick. He conceived and organized General Motors, including Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile. Certainly a considerable monument to one man's tireless energy.

But now, when many men would be content to enjoy a well-earned vacation, he is up to the armpits in the business of launching the crowning effort of his career.

It's "just a real good car," Durant says. "If it's good enough for him to christen with his own name, it's good enough for us," said the trade, and in 141 working days after the announcement they contracted for $31,000,000 worth of Durant cars.

NURSE FREE ON BOND WHILE AWAITING TRIAL

Kansas City, Mo., September 7.—Marie "Peggy" Beal, Dayton, (Ohio) nurse, slayer of Frank Warren Anderson, scion of an old Philadelphia family, is free on bond, pleading "not guilty" of second degree murder, the charge filed against her by Cameron Orr, prosecutor, yesterday. She appeared before John George, Justice of the Peace.

"Peggy Beal is alone, friendless and without a cent in the world," George Birmingham, her attorney told the Court.

"Her wealth is in the little pocketbook in her hand—a $1 bill and a few pennies—but she wishes to face trial. She desires to tell her story. Peggy would rather destroy herself—will destroy herself, in fact—if she cannot be vindicated in the eyes of the public."

Mr. Birmingham's plea earned a low bond of $5,000. This Mr. Birmingham gave and the prisoner was released pending preliminary hearing before Justice George September 16.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE STARTS EXTENSION WORK SEPTEMBER 16

Beginning Saturday morning, September 16, Antioch College will begin its extension program by offering two courses to the general public, English Literature and Biology.

The Literature course, which meets at nine o'clock, will be under the direction of Mr. Lincoln R. Gibbs, formerly head of the English Department at the University of Pittsburgh and Mr. L. M. Johnson, who comes to Antioch after a year of post-graduate work at Harvard, preceded by special work in English at the University of Oregon, where he took his degree.

The course in Biology will be conducted by Dr. O. L. Inman and Prof. Charles A. Nosker, both excellently trained in this field.

These courses, while of interest to the general public, are especially designed to meet the needs of teachers. They will be counted toward graduation from Antioch, provided the student is accepted as a candidate for a degree, and completes at least two years of resident work this being required of all candidates for graduation. A nominal fee for registration will be charged, and tuition will be very low. Each course will consist of twenty weeks work, one recitation per week.

These courses are only the beginning of Antioch's extension work. If a sufficient number ask for other extension courses, arrangements will be made to offer them.

Before Baby Comes

THERE are thousands of expectant mothers who undergo much useless suffering for months before, as well as at the moment when delivery occurs. These months of suffering, with nerves and vital organs weakened, leave their effect upon the child. An eminent physician found the way to stop much of this unnecessary suffering—the same easy way which thousands of mothers have used for three generations.

Mrs. Walter S. Hadley, Bridgeport, Ind., says: "Before my little boy came I was so paralyzed in my hips and limbs I could hardly walk, and some days after a little extra exertion I couldn't walk a step. I felt it coming on this time; in fact, I could hardly get up when I sat down, but now, after using one bottle of Mother's Friend, I am so much better. I feel that I almost owe my life to Mother's Friend."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It penetrates remarkably, permitting the easier relaxation and distension of muscles, nerves, tissues and ligaments, and their constant easier readjustment during expectancy and at child-birth. Have no more fear or dread, mother! Start using "Mother's Friend" now—the sooner the better.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor, because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. For three generations "Mother's Friend" has relieved expectant mothers of much useless suffering. Mother! you must avoid mere greases and useless substitutes. Begin using "Mother's Friend" today. It is sold at drug stores—everywhere.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

Did You Get the Bottom Price, After All?

The man who buys a "long discount" tire usually finds himself troubled by the above question.

Did he pay less for the tire than his neighbor might have paid, or actually did he pay more?

Did he get the bottom price, when all is said and done, or could he perhaps have driven a sharper bargain?

Was the net price really more than he might have had to pay for a tire of established reputation and value?

In the belief that the average motorist prefers a frank and open transaction, we built the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord and discounted the "discount" in advance.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can.

We build it of high-grade long-staple cotton, using the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction, and sell it at a lower price than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown worth.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

LOCAL OFFICIALS WILL FIGHT TO KEEP CULP BEHIND BARS

If W. W. Culp, former Spring Valley preacher, obtains his release from the Dayton Work House, where he was sentenced on an abandonment charge, it will not be until after officials here have waged a fight to defeat the habeas corpus proceedings which have been brought in Dayton.

On the request of local authorities, the hearing on the habeas corpus proceedings, which was scheduled to be held in Judge Routzohn's court in Dayton Saturday morning has been postponed until Monday morning at the same hour. Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson will be present at the hearing, to wage a fight in support of the committing sentence of Judge J. Carl Marshall and keep Culp behind the bars until he has served his sentence of one year and $500 fine.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache..

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. Mrs. C. L.: "Gelatine Ice Cream: A tablespoon (more or less) of gelatine dissolved in one-half cup of milk, added to every half gallon of cream, will make ice cream 'stand up' like the manufactured product."

Mrs. L. B.: "My Grapejuice Recipe: I used to take a 'week off,' amost, to make grapejuice every year, but now I make it as follows: Into a quart fruit jar put one cup of grapes picked off the stem—washed and dried, of course. Add one-half cup of granulated sugar, then fill the jar full of actively boiling water and seal airtight. I roll the cans around a moment, until the sugar is dissolved, and then turn them upside-down so as to be sure they do not leak. When they are cool, I store them in my fruit closet. I've never had a can spoil, although I was very skeptical at first. The juice is ready to use in a couple of weeks, but it can be kept indefinitely, and will be found most beautifully clear and fine in flavor. And it is so easy to put up! One can do one can at a time whenever a cup of grapes is available. If you use more than one cup of sugar to a quart, it will be too sweet. I use Concord grapes, but it makes a fine change to have a few jars of other varieties also. Here is another recipe:

My Cake: Into one cup of sugar, stir one teaspoon of butter, then beat in one egg until the mixture foams. Now put one-half teaspoon of soda into one cup of buttermilk, and when the soda is dissolved add this mixture to the above given mixture. Then add enough flour to make a regular cake consistency, using one teaspoon of baking powder with the flour. Any desired seasoning may be used, but I find that grated nutmeg makes a good change. Men folks, who are utterly sick and tired of rich frosted cakes, will appreciate this one. Bake in loaf form, for 40 minutes in a moderate oven."

B. P. E.: "A Recipe for Removing Wall Paper: This hint may help women who would like to try papering their own rooms. I use a spray pump. It is a big help in removing old wall paper. Make a paste, somewhat thinner than that used for pasting on the paper, and spray this paste onto the wall very hot. The paper will scrape off easily—indeed it will almost fall off, unless unusually strong glue was used in pasting the paper on originally. The reason for using a flour and water paste instead of just plain water, is that the water alone is apt to evaporate too quickly. Also, clear water does not have the soaking effect that paste has. Do not make the paste too thick or it will not be able to go through the nozzle of the spray pump."

LOCAL OFFICIALS WILL FIGHT TO KEEP CULP BEHIND BARS

If W. W. Culp, former Spring Valley preacher, obtains his release from the Dayton Work House, where he was sentenced on an abandonment charge, it will not be until after officials here have waged a fight to defeat the habeas corpus proceedings which have been brought in Dayton.

On the request of local authorities, the hearing on the habeas corpus proceedings, which was scheduled to be held in Judge Routzohn's court in Dayton Saturday morning has been postponed until Monday morning at the same hour. Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson will be present at the hearing, to wage a fight in support of the committing sentence of Judge J. Carl Marshall and keep Culp behind the bars until he has served his sentence of one year and $500 fine.

The habeas corpus papers filed in Dayton courts by Charles W. Folkerth prominent attorney acting in Culp's interest, alleges a fault in the jurisdiction of the committing court. Dayton dispatches say that the affidavit erred in failing to state where Culp abandoned his wife and nine children when he eloped June 14 with Esther Hughes, young music teacher, who was a boarder at his home.

Local authorities believe the Dayton attorney is basing his action on an alleged defect in the printing of the affidavit which was one of standard form, published by a reliable legal printing house. They are of the opinion that Folkerth is basing his action on the fact that the printed affidavit, although it bore the title, "State of Ohio, County of Greene, ss" simply said "County of Greene" ignoring the "State of Ohio" in the body of the affidavit, describing the place where the elopement took place.

Authorities here say that if Folkerth is basing his habeas corpus proceedings on that point, that he is depending upon a mere technicality, which they believe will be overlooked by the court. Local officials hold that even the technicality can not operate against the sentence now, because Culp entered a plea of guilty when arraigned, and thus waived all right of contest of the decision on the basis of the technicality or any other point.

Prosecutor Williamson will ask the court in Dayton to ignore the habeas corpus proceedings and to insist that Culp should serve the remainder of his sentence.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

Cincinnati, ept. 7—Passengers on a Baltimore and Ohio accommodation train were shaken up and service was delayed for several hours this morning when the engine and one coach were derailed by a split switch, as the train was moving slowly into the station here. The locomotive buried itself in a mud bank before it could be stopped. Officials of the railroad after an investigation said the derailment was purely an accident.

SHOOTING SCENE ON WILMINGTON PIKE

LETTERS TO PAPER INDICATE TREND OF PUBLIC OPINION

The drift of public sentiment regarding the shooting of four boys on the Wilmington pike, near Xenia, Tuesday night by Sheriff Funderburgh and Deputies, is revealed in letters to the editor of The Gazette and The Republican. The following are two that have come to the attention of the Editor and set forth both sides of the question that has been nolding the attention of the community for two days.

In fairness to all concerned The Gazette and The Republican are printing these contributions without comment.

SHOOTING OF XENIA BOYS.

Editor The Gazette:—

1. The confusion caused over the shooting of the Xenia boys is uncalled for; while it was terrible for the boys to have been shot and killed, but, no one is more sorrowful than the Sheriff and his Deputies. Let the fair-minded people of the Community analize the situation and see who was at fault.

First: The boys were doing a thoughtless wrong.

Second: A man reported a bunch of hold-up men operating.

Third: The Sheriff with a posse responded to the call. They went to the scene with full intentions of capturing the supposedly hold-up men. When they approached the spot they saw men hiding in ambush; they demanded "halt," they did not heed, what was left to do? Nothing but just what took place.

2. Place yourself in his position after every paper you pick up you read of detectives and sheriffs getting killed or wounded. You dare not take chances as you did years ago. The bandit of today shoots without a minute's notice and so must an officer to compete with them. Take it on the other hand if the man that mad, the report to the sheriff of the hold-up men operating on the Wilmington Pike had been right and the sheriff and his posse had gone out there and had gotten shot-up every one would have said, "What fools for taking chances." why did they not start shooting as soon as they had discovered them, and in case they should have gotten away then the public would have said, "Oh, they were only afraid." So here is the situation as I see it and as any fair-minded person should see it. As I said before it is a terrible thing and no one feels more sorrowful than the sheriff.

S. K. COFFMAN,
1242 Germantown Street,
Dayton, Ohio.

Editor Xenia Republican.

Please give me enough space to answer what you say in this Morning's Xenia Republican about the County officers and their making an investigation of the shooting of the boys Tuesday night.

The farmers of Greene County are going to watch this affair to the end, and they are going to expect the Coroner and the Prosecuting Attorney to do the right thing in this case. Politics have their place at election time, but when an officer deliberately kills a boy, and cripples several others, without any reasonable excuse, the County officers are going to be called upon to try the case, and present ALL THE EVDENCE, and let a fair-minded jury say whether or not the offenders are guilty. That is all we ask—we want a fair trial. This man must not be whitewashed by any political friends or any County officials. Rotten politics won't do in this case. Give Funderburg what is coming to him. If he has a license to kill the boys of Greene County, let a jury say so.

Yours,
"Watchful Waiting"

NO POLITICS IN DISMISSAL OF HASTINGS IS WORD

Columbus, Sept. 7.—"The reported appeal to the public which Captain Hastings, whom I have dismissed as head of the State Boys' Industrial School, declares he will make, will not retain him in his position," state Welfare Director Macayeal declared today. "The only actual redress towards that end for him, is to appeal to the State Civil Service Commission within 30 days after September 11."

Director Macayeal declared that "politics did not enter in any instance" in any changes he has made at state institutions.

"At Lancaster conditions were such that the institution was not serving the purpose for which it was created and radical changes were necessary," he declared, "which in my judgment, could be brought about best by the removal of the superintendent, who happened in this instance to be a Democrat."

In three other instances where he dismissed or caused the removal of state institute heads or officials, Macayeal asserted that the men affected were all Republicans.

COUNTER ACTION MADE BY STRIKERS

Washington, Sept. 7.—Striking railway workers today started counter legal action against the government to prevent the agents of Attorney General Daugherty from interfering with the affairs of the unions.

The international brotherhood of electrical workers, one of the striking shopcraft unions, filed suit in the supreme court of the district of Columbia, for an injunction restraining Preston Gordon, federal district attorney and Edgard C. Snyder, U. S. Marshal, from carrying out the terms of the drastic restraining order which Attorney General Daugherty secured in Chicago. The suit is the first legal retaliatory blow struck by organized labor against the government's institution of legal proceedings in Chicago.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

Cincinnati, ept. 7—Passengers on a Baltimore and Ohio accommodation train were shaken up and service was delayed for several hours this morning when the engine and one coach were derailed by a split switch, as the train was moving slowly into the station here. The locomotive buried itself in a mud bank before it could be stopped. Officials of the railroad after an investigation said the derailment was purely an accident.

SHOOTING SCENE ON WILMINGTON PIKE

LETTERS TO PAPER INDICATE TREND OF PUBLIC OPINION

The drift of public sentiment regarding the shooting of four boys on the Wilmington pike, near Xenia, Tuesday night by Sheriff Funderburgh and Deputies, is revealed in letters to the editor of The Gazette and The Republican. The following are two that have come to the attention of the Editor and set forth both sides of the question that has been nolding the attention of the community for two days.

In fairness to all concerned The Gazette and The Republican are printing these contributions without comment.

SHOOTING OF XENIA BOYS.
Editor The Gazette:—

1. The confusion caused over the shooting of the Xenia boys is uncalled for; while it was terrible for the boys to have been shot and killed, but, no one is more sorrowful than the Sheriff and his Deputies. Let the fair-minded people of the Community analize the situation and see who was at fault.

First: The boys were doing a thoughtless wrong.

Second: A man reported a bunch of hold-up men operating.

Third: The Sheriff with a posse responded to the call. They went to the scene with full intentions of capturing the supposedly hold-up men. When they approached the spot they saw men hiding in ambush; they demanded "halt," they did not heed, what was left to do? Nothing but just what took place.

2. Place yourself in his position after every paper you pick up you read of detectives and sheriffs getting killed or wounded. You dare not take chances as you did years ago. The bandit of today shoots without a minute's notice and so must an officer to compete with them. Take it on the other hand if the man that made the report to the sheriff of the hold-up men operating on the Wilmington Pike had been right and the sheriff and his posse had gone out there and had gotten shot-up every one would have said, "What fools for taking chances." why did they not start shooting as soon as they had discovered them, and in case they should have gotten away then the public would have said, "Oh, they were only afraid." So here is the situation as I see it and as any fair-minded person should see it. As I said before it is a terrible thing and no one feels more sorrowful than the sheriff.

S. K. COFFMAN,
1242 Germantown Street,
Dayton, Ohio.

Editor Xenia Republican.

Please give me enough space to answer what you say in this Morning's Xenia Republican about the County officers and their making an investigation of the shooting of the boys Tuesday night.

The farmers of Greene County are going to watch this affair to the end, and they are going to expect the Coroner and the Prosecuting Attorney to do the right thing in this case. Politics have their place at election time, but when an officer deliberately kills a boy, and cripples several others, without any reasonable excuse, the County officers are going to be called upon to try the case, and present ALL THE EVDENCE, and let a fair-minded jury say whether or not the offenders are guilty. That is all we ask—we want a fair trial. This man must not be whitewashed by any political friends or any County officials. Rotten politics won't do in this case. Give Funderburg what is coming to him. If he has a license to kill the boys of Greene County ,let a jury say so.

Yours,
"Watchful Waiting"

NO POLITICS IN DISMISSAL OF HASTINGS IS WORD

Columbus, Sept. 7.—"The reported appeal to the public which Captain Hastings, whom I have dismissed as head of the State Boys' Industrial School, declares he will make, will not retain him in his position," state Welfare Director Macayeal declared today. "The only actual redress towards that end for him, is to appeal to the State Civil Service Commission within 30 days after September 11."

Director Macayeal declared that "politics did not enter in any instance" in any changes he has made at state institutions.

"At Lancaster conditions were such that the institution was not serving the purpose for which it was created and radical changes were necessary," he declared, "which in my judgment, could be brought about best by the removal of the superintendent, who happened in this instance to be a Democrat."

In three other instances where he dismissed or caused the removal of state institute heads or officials, Macayeal asserted that the men affected were all Republicans.

COUNTER ACTION MADE BY STRIKERS

Washington, Sept. 7.—Striking railway workers today started counter legal action against the government to prevent the agents of Attorney General Daugherty from interfering with the affairs of the unions.

The international brotherhood of electrical workers, one of the striking shopcraft unions, filed suit in the supreme court of the district of Columbia, for an injunction restraining Preston Gordon, federal district attorney and Edgard C. Snyder, U. S. Marshal, from carrying out the terms of the drastic restraining order which Attorney General Daugherty secured in Chicago. The suit is the first legal retaliatory blow struck by organized labor against the government's institution of legal proceedings in Chicago.

BRINGING UP FATHER

New Head of Red Cross Sails Abroad.

INMATE OF PEN AT AGE OF 13

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 7.—Only thirteen years old and an inmate of the State penitentiary!

That is the plight of Bruce Miller, of Kansas City. Bruce was received from Benton County, after having been sentenced to serve two years for robbery. Falsifying that he was nineteen at the time of his arrest didn't cause the court to be any too lenient with him.

Mother love has since intervened in an effort to keep her son's record unsmirched from the stain of a prison record. Mrs. Miller established the fact that Bruce is only thirteen and appealed to Judge C. A. Calvird, of Clinton, before whom the youngster was arraigned for a revocation of sentence.

It is understood the prison board is planning to recommend the parole of the boy, who had acted as a lookout for a man who robbed a store.

POTTERY FILES BANKRUPTCY.

Columbus, Sept. 7.—With liabilities of $162,566.09 and assets totalling $280.660.64, the Florentine Pottery Company, of Cambridge, has filed in federal court here a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

FORD REFUSES COAL AT $4.50 PER TON OPERATORS ARE SEEKING ANSWER

Cincinnati,, Sept. 7.—Cincinnati coal operators are asking each other whether Henry Ford wanted coal or a plausible excuse for shutting down his vast automobile factory when he announced recently that he would have to suspend operations on September 16, because of profiteering on the part of jobbers and coal wholesalers. The local men base their inquiry on the fact that the flivver magnate has failed so far to gobble up an offer on the part of Colonel Michael Roach, president of the Logan-Pocahontas Coal Company, to furnish all the coal that Mr. Ford could use at the government price of $4.50 a ton.

"Why should we pay you $4.50 a ton when we can load coal at our own mine in your district for $2.50?" is one of the lines from a telegram Mr. Ford sent Colonel Roach following receipt of his offer. The general tone of the reply showed no eagerness on the part of the auto king to avail himself of an ample coal supply at government prices. Colonel Roach reiterated his offer on Wednesday night in a lengthy telegram in which he said that Mr. Ford was "most fortunate" while the rest of the coal operators of the country were unfortunate if he could load coal at a cost of $2.50 a ton.

SAYS ABNORMAL CITIZENS WILL BE RESULT IN FUTURE

London, Sept. 7.—A future population which will have a number of abnormal citizens threatens London as the result of the German air raids.

"Air raid babies"—children born under the stress of Zeppelin and aeroplane raids—are now reaching the school age and are coming under observation.

The London County Council educational authorities are finding themselves faced with a problem with these children. Although no tabulated figures are available concerning "air raids babies," it is stated that the nervous system of these children are unstable, their temper is uncertain, and the number of "difficult" children is great. Precocity is strongly developed in these abnormal children and a peculiar trait is that almost all have uniformly tapering fingers.

In one class of thirty-four air-raid children all have staring eyes, as though awaiting some great catastrophe.

Many of these children are found to be incorrigible and have a spirit which constantly causes difficulties for their teachers.

It is reported that a few of the children appear to suffer from constant fear and timidity.

FILE SUIT TO GET VOTE ON BEER ISSUE

Columbus, O., Sept. 7.—Sponsors for the proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution legalizing 2.75 per cent beer and wine for home consumption, yesterday filed in supreme court a mandamus suit to compel Secretary of State Smith to put the proposal on the November ballot.

Smith recently ruled the measure off the ballot on the ground that it would be in conflict with the Volstead act, and the eighteenth amendment to the U. S. constitution, the Volstead act permitting only one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content.

The court granted a temporary writ of mandamus, returnable for argument next Wednesday. F. W. Marcolin, H. S. Sherman and w. L. Day, all of Cleveland, representing themselves as citizens and signers of the beer and wine petition, are the plaintiffs, and Mr. Day, former U. S. district judge, and W. D. Wilkin, their attorney.

Attorney General Price will represent Secretary of State Smith. J. A. White, head of the Anti-Saloon League, opposing popular vote on the proposed amendment, will not be invited in as counsel, it is said, but may join as a friend of the case.

The plaintiffs set forth that they complied with all the requirements set forth in the initiative and referendum section of the Ohio constitution and contend nobody, therefore, has the right to keep the proposal off the ballot.

That they expect to appeal to the U. S. supreme court, if they lose in Ohio, is indicated by the many references the petition makes to the U. S. constitution.

FLAID CHICAGO RAIL INJUNCTION

Wshington, Sept. 7.—Flaying the Chicago rail injunction as "a violation of law and constitution," Senator Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas condemned the government's conduct of strike negotiations.

In a prepared speech on the floor of the senate Robinson charged the injunction "exceeded the powers of the court" and was a violation of the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and the right of peaceful assemblage."

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

DOROTHY FALLON'S VISITS DEPRESS NELLIE

Chapter 64

The elder Mr. Fallon was still away, and Nellie was constantly in Mr. George's office—to her delight. She never analyzed this feeling but felt a happy contentment when near him, even when Miss Jones sat beside him, taking his more important dictation while work of less value was assigned to her. Often she would glance up and gaze for a moment on her employer's profile, and say to herself:

"There is no one like him—no one in the whole world."

But Nellie's calm happiness was occasionally interrupted, although she scarcely realized it—never gave it a name. On the days when Miss Dorothy visited the office—and in her cousinly way took possession of Mr. George, and joked with him, often going to lunch, or carrying him off earlier than usual because of some engagement she had made for him—Nellie felt a depression that she tried in vain to shake off.

Miss Dorothy was always kind, never failed to speak pleasantly to her, at times stopping to chat a moment beside her desk. Nellie admired the gay, light-hearted girl immensely. Her lovely clothes, so simply cut, yet so stylish and becoming, caused her no envy, but a desire to dress appropriately as Cora had taught her—and as she was sure Miss Dorothy always did. She could not help overhearing the plans for whatever they were going to do, and notice that Miss Dorothy was always dressed for the occasion, whether it was a yachting trip or a luncheon.

"She knows how—it isn't all the money," Nellie said to herself. Then one day she learned from something that was said that Miss Dorothy designed her own clothes—her dressmaker simply carrying out her ideas. "I was sure she had something to do with her clothes," she told Miss Jones after Dorothy left. "They look like her."

"Yes, they express her individuality But it takes a great deal of time and thought to dress distincitvely. We working women don't have time to think very much of clothes beyond being neat."

"I'm going to try to learn what suits me too," Nellie decided. "Even if I can't have lovely things like she does."

Nellie's interest in Miss Dorothy, however did not lessen the depression she felt after her visits to the office. She was annoyed, wondered why she felt as she did as if something unpleasant had happened, something affecting her adversely.

"Aren't you feeling well?" Miss Jones asked one day after Dorothy had carried her cousin away despite his protests. He had declared he couldn't go but she had coaxed until he had laughingly called her a teaze, and then given in.

"Yes, why?" Nellie answered.

"You looked so serious, and I spoke to you twice before you answered me."

"Excuse me, I am sorry."

Miss Jones looked keenly at Nellie. "Not thinking of young Horne, were you?" she asked with a smile.

"Mercy no! Why should I think of him?"

"I'm very much mistken if he doesn't think often of you. He's a nice boy, Nellie."

"He's all right to run around with,' Nellies answer was so carelessly indifferent that Miss Jones was satisfied that she cared nothing for Donald Horne, save as a friend. Nellie was a queer girl, never showed any interest in the boys and young men as other girls in her position usually did; never talked of them.

Miss Jones admired this trait in the young girl, although she felt it peculiar. Nellie was so full of fun, so bright, so sure to be attractive to the other sex, that her indifference seemed almist unnatural.

"I've never had much use for men" she said, when Miss Jones laughingly spoke of her indifference. "You wouldn't either if you had lived in Miss Carter's boarding house at the Corners and heard those traveling men talk. I learned too much about them—how they get girls to do foolish things, then laugh at them afterafterward. It was a long time ago, but I have never forgotten one word they said, or how they used to brag about what they could do with the girls they met. It makes me sick every time I think of it. They put me wise all right."

"Perhaps they did you a service," Nellie," Miss Jones answered. "but you mustn't think all men are bad. There are many fine conscientious men in the world."

"Some pedhaps," Nellie replied, her thoughts on Mr. George. He was fine, she was sure he was good. But he was only one. Her opinion of men in general had not changed.

SON KILLS FATHER

Kansas City, Sept. 7.—Roy B. Garvey shot and killed his father, J. W. Garvey yesterday as the latter sat at his desk in an insurance office operated b ythe two in a downtown building here. Ford Runs 57 Miles On Gallon Of Gasoline

A new automatic Vaporizer and Decarbonizer, which in actul test has increased the power and mileage of Fords from 25 to 50 per cent and at the same time removed every particle of carbon from the cylinders is the proud achievement of John A. Stransky, 738 South Main Stret, Pukwana, South Dakota. A remarkble feature of this simple inexpensive device is that its action is governed entirely by the motor. It is slipped between the carburetor and intake maniford and can be installed by anyone in five minutes without drilling or tapping. With it attached, Ford cars have made from 40 to 57 miles on one gallon of gasoline. Mr. Stransky wants to place a few of these devices in this territory and has a very liberal offer to make to anyone who is able to handle the business which is sure to be created wherever this marvelous little device is demonstrated. If you want to try one entirely at his risk send him your name and address today.—Adv.

That is the plight of Bruce Miller, of Kansas City. Bruce was received from Benton County, after having been sentenced to serve two years for robbery. Falsifying that he was nineteen at the time of his arrest didn't cause the court to be any too lenient with him.

Mother love has since intervened in an effort to keep her son's record unsmirched from the stain of a prison record. Mrs. Miller established the fact that Bruce is only thirteen and appealed to Judge C. A. Calvird, of Clinton, before whom the youngster was arraigned for a revocation of sentence.

It is understood the prison board is planning to recommend the parole of the boy, who had acted as a lookout for a man who robbed a store.

POTTERY FILES BANKRUPTCY.

FORD REFUSES COAL AT $4.50 PER TON OPERATORS ARE SEEKING ANSWER

Cincinnati,, Sept. 7.—Cincinnati coal operators are asking each other whether Henry Ford wanted coal or a plausible excuse for shutting down his vast automobile factory when he announced recently that he would have to suspend operations on September 16, because of profiteering on the part of jobbers and coal wholesalers. The local men base their inquiry on the fact that the flivver magnate has failed so far to gobble up an offer on the part of Colonel Michael Roach, president of the Logan-Pocahontas Coal Company, to furnish all the coal that Mr. Ford could use at the government price of $4.50 a ton.

"Why should we pay you $4.50 a ton when we can load coal at our own mine in your district for $2.50?" is one of the lines from a telegram Mr. Ford sent Colonel Roach following receipt of his offer. The general tone of the reply showed no eagerness on the part of the auto king to avail himself of an ample coal supply at government prices. Colonel Roach reiterated his offer on Wednesday night in a lengthy telegram in which he said that Mr. Ford was "most fortunate" while the rest of the coal operators of the country were unfortunate if he could load coal at a cost of $2.50 a ton.

SAYS ABNORMAL CITIZENS WILL BE RESULT IN FUTURE

London, Sept. 7.—A future population which will have a number of abnormal citizens threatens London as the result of the German air raids.

"Air raid babies"—children born under the stress of Zeppelin and aeroplane raids—are now reaching the school age and are coming under observation.

The London County Council educational authorities are finding themselves faced with a problem with these children. Although no tabulated figures are available concerning "air raids babies," it is stated that the nervous system of these children are unstable, their temper is uncertain, and the number of "difficult" children is great. Precocity is strongly developed in these abnormal children and a peculiar trait is that almost all have uniformly tapering fingers.

In one class of thirty-four air-raid children all have staring eyes, as though awaiting some great catastrophe.

Many of these children are found to be incorrigible and have a spirit which constantly causes difficulties for their teachers.

It is reported that a few of the children appear to suffer from constant fear and timidity.

FILE SUIT TO GET VOTE ON BEER ISSUE

Columbus, O., Sept. 7.—Sponsors for the proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution legalizing 2.75 per cent beer and wine for home consumption, yesterday filed in supreme court a mandamus suit to compel Secretary of State Smith to put the proposal on the November ballot.

Smith recently ruled the measure off the ballot on the ground that it would be in conflict with the Volstead act, and the eighteenth amendment to the U. S. constitution, the Volstead act permitting only one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content.

The court granted a temporary writ of mandamus, returnable for argument next Wednesday. F. W. Marcolin, H. S. Sherman and w. L. Day, all of Cleveland, representing themselves as citizens and signers of the beer and wine petition, are the plaintiffs, and Mr. Day, former U. S. district judge, and W. D. Wilkin, their attorney.

Attorney General Price will represent Secretary of State Smith. J. A. White, head of the Anti-Saloon League, opposing popular vote on the proposed amendment, will not be invited in as counsel, it is said, but may join as a friend of the case.

The plaintiffs set forth that they complied with all the requirements set forth in the initiative and referendum section of the Ohio constitution and contend nobody, therefore, has the right to keep the proposal off the ballot.

That they expect to appeal to the U. S. supreme court, if they lose in Ohio, is indicated by the many references the petition makes to the U. S. constitution.

FLAID CHICAGO RAIL INJUNCTION

Wshington, Sept. 7.—Flaying the Chicago rail injunction as "a violation of law and constitution," Senator Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas condemned the government's conduct of strike negotiations.

In a prepared speech on the floor of the senate Robinson charged the injunction "exceeded the powers of the court" and was a violation of the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and the right of peaceful assemblage."

A Stenographer's Romance

DOROTHY FALLON'S VISITS DEPRESS NELLIE

Chapter 64

The elder Mr. Fallon was still away, and Nellie was constantly in Mr. George's office—to her delight. She never analyzed this feeling but felt a happy contentment when near him, even when Miss Jones sat beside him, taking his more important dictation while work of less value was assigned to her. Often she would glance up and gaze for a moment on her employer's profile, and say to herself:

"There is no one like him—no one in the whole world."

But Nellie's calm happiness was occasionally interrupted, although she scarcely realized it—never gave it a name. On the days when Miss Dorothy visited the office—and in her cousinly way took possession of Mr. George, and joked with him, often going to lunch, or carrying him off earlier than usual because of some engagement she had made for him—Nellie felt a depression that she tried in vain to shake off.

Miss Dorothy was always kind, never failed to speak pleasantly to her, at times stopping to chat a moment beside her desk. Nellie admired the gay, light-hearted girl immensely. Her lovely clothes, so simply cut, yet so stylish and becoming, caused her no envy, but a desire to dress appropriately as Cora had taught her—and as she was sure Miss Dorothy always did. She could not help overhearing the plans for whatever they were going to do, and notice that Miss Dorothy was always dressed for the occasion, whether it was a yachting trip or a luncheon.

"She knows how—it isn't all the money," Nellie said to herself. Then one day she learned from something that was said that Miss Dorothy designed her own clothes—her dressmaker simply carrying out her ideas. "I was sure she had something to do with her clothes," she told Miss Jones after Dorothy left. "They look like her."

"Yes, they express her individuality But it takes a great deal of time and thought to dress distincitvely. We working women don't have time to think very much of clothes beyond being neat."

"I'm going to try to learn what suits me too," Nellie decided. "Even if I can't have lovely things like she does."

Nellie's interest in Miss Dorothy, however did not lessen the depression she felt after her visits to the office. She was annoyed, wondered why she felt as she did as if something unpleasant had happened, something affecting her adversely.

"Aren't you feeling well?" Miss Jones asked one day after Dorothy had carried her cousin away despite his protests. He had declared he couldn't go but she had coaxed until he had laughingly called her a teaze, and then given in.

"Yes, why?" Nellie answered.

"You looked so serious, and I spoke to you twice before you answered me."

"Excuse me, I am sorry."

Miss Jones looked keenly at Nellie. "Not thinking of young Horne, were you?" she asked with a smile.

"Mercy no! Why should I think of him?"

"I'm very much mistken if he doesn't think often of you. He's a nice boy, Nellie."

"He's all right to run around with,' Nellies answer was so carelessly indifferent that Miss Jones was satisfied that she cared nothing for Donald Horne, save as a friend. Nellie was a queer girl, never showed any interest in the boys and young men as other girls in her position usually did; never talked of them.

Miss Jones admired this trait in the young girl, although she felt it peculiar. Nellie was so full of fun, so bright, so sure to be attractive to the other sex, that her indifference seemed almist unnatural.

"I've never had much use for men" she said, when Miss Jones laughingly spoke of her indifference. "You wouldn't either if you had lived in Miss Carter's boarding house at the Corners and heard those traveling men talk. I learned too much about them—how they get girls to do foolish things, then laugh at them afterafterward. It was a long time ago, but I have never forgotten one word they said, or how they used to brag about what they could do with the girls they met. It makes me sick every time I think of it. They put me wise all right."

"Perhaps they did you a service," Nellie," Miss Jones answered. "but you mustn't think all men are bad. There are many fine conscientious men in the world."

"Some pedhaps," Nellie replied, her thoughts on Mr. George. He was fine, she was sure he was good. But he was only one. Her opinion of men in general had not changed.

Tomorrow—An Accident and an Awakening

SON KILLS FATHER

Kansas City, Sept. 7.—Roy B. Garvey shot and killed his father, J. W. Garvey yesterday as the latter sat at his desk in an insurance office operated b ythe two in a downtown building here. After firing the shot young Garvey walked from the building to police headquarters and surrendered to acting Chief Frank Anderson.

Ford Runs 57 Miles On Gallon Of Gasoline

A new automatic Vaporizer and Decarbonizer, which in actul test has incresed the power and mileage of Fords from 25 to 50 per cent and at the same time removed every particle of carbon from the cylinders is the proud achievement of John A. Stransky, 738 South Main Stret, Pukwana, South Dakota. A remarkble feature of this simple inexpensive device is that its action is governed entirely by the motor. It is slipped between the carburetor and intake maniford and can be installed by anyone in five minutes without drilling or tapping. With it attached, Ford cars have made from 40 to 57 miles on one gallon of gasoline. Mr. Stransky wants to place a few of these devices in this territory and has a very liberal offer to make to anyone who is able to handle the business which is sure to be created wherever this marvelous little device is demonstrated. If you want to try one entirely at his risk send him your name and address today.—Adv.

BAN ON LIQUOR SHIPS CAUSES HOWL OF PROTEST

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS ARE EXPECTED

Ruling Against Foreign --Vessels Bringing Booze Creates Storm

PORTS MAY DECLINE

Ships May Pass Up U. S. Seaports and Land at Canada.

Washington, Oct. 7.—A flood of international complications, the seriousness and extent of which officials do not care to speculate on today, is confidently expected to follow the government's sweeping decision that no booze of any sort under any flag may come into the ports of these dry United States.

An immediate and world-wide howl of protest is anticipated by government officials, from President Harding down to the customs agents and dry sleuths whose duty it will be to try to enforce the unprecedented order. Officials took the position today, however, that congress framed the law so as to give the executive branch of the government no other alternative and it is now up to Congress to change the law, if it wants it changed.

Orders were dispatched by the United States Shipping Board today to cease immediately the sale of all liquor on all boats flying the American flag. As for the foreign ships, nothing will be done toward enforcing the order until the treasury department experts figure out a way to apply the "ships that touch liquor shall not touch our ports," decree.

A. D. Lasker, chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board, who has consistently fought for the right of American liners to dispense liquor, took a gloomy view of the situation today. If the order "sticks" and is upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court, where it presently will be tested, Lasker has visions of the decline of great American ports. He sees the great liners that now port in New York, Boston, Seattle and Portland, going to Montreal, Halifax and Vancouver instead, with the consequent decline in business in those American ports.

"The American marine is immediately put at a disadvantage," he observed disconsolately. "Foreign ships will continue to sell liquor and will be preferred. If they can't touch American ports with it they will go elsewhere, or dodge the provisions by some means or another."

Great Britain and France are expected to be the loudest of the foreign nations in their howls against the new American order. The great British and French liners that go into New York and Boston and the Japanese liners that port in Portland, Seattle and San Francisco, do a thriving business, and their governments are prepared to back them to the limit—as already proven by the protests in the state department.

Numerous ways in which the foreigners might beat the game were being suggested today. The most feasible one mas that the big liners like the Cunard and French might maintain heavy lighters outside the three mile limit to which the liners could transfer their liquor stores just before coming in (picking them up again on the outward passage.

In dry quarters the new order was hailed with delight today. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-saloon League, was triumphant. He issued a formal statement congratulating the government.

Among dry congressmen, up for reelection, the order also was well received. Republican drys have had to stand a lot of sniping from wet Democrats in some congressional districts over the fact that the Republican administration was in the liquor business on the high seas and they were nervous over its effect on the dry vote.

In New Jersey Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican is running as a bone dry candidate against former Governor Edwards, who confesses himself "as wet as the Atlantic ocean."

In Ohio, Simeon D. Fess, Republican, the senatorial candidate is an anto-saloon league dry opposed to Senator Pomerene, Democrat, who has distinctly moist leanings.

TRIAL DEFENDANTS POISONED; HEARING HALTED SATURDAY

Leipsig, Oct. 7.—The trial of Warnicke, Guenther and three others charged with complicity in the assassination plot against the late Dr. Walter Rathenau, German foreign secretary, was suddenly halted today by illness of the defendants who had been poisoned with typhus baccilli contained in a box of candy sent from Berlin.

TWO ARE INJURED WHEN CAR STRIKES TRUCK SATURDAY

Two Dayton women, members of a party of four, consisting of two men and two women, were injured when the Ford touring car in which they were riding was struck by a Dani-Campbell truck from Washington C. H., on the Dayton and Jamestown pike, near the John Irwin farm, a mile and a half from Jamestown, Saturday morning about nine o'clock.

The names of the members of the party were not known, one of the men giving the name of Dingman, or Dingelman. One of the women received a scalp wound while the other was cut over her eye. Neither was seriously hurt, their injuries being dressed by Dr. J. H. French, of Jamestown, who was called to the Irwin home following the accident.

After their injuries were dressed the four were taken to Dayton, giving the address of 23 Galloway street, where they were taken in a car from the Murdock garage, Jamestown.

The accident happened when the Ford touring car, going to Jamestown, collided with the truck, coming to Xenia, when the driver of the truck drove around another machine and crashed head-on into the Ford touring car. The machine was badly damaged in the accident.

WOODROW WILSON WILL TAKE ACTIVE PART IN CAMPAIGN

Expects to Have Hand in Democratic Candidate In 1924

Washington, Oct. 7.—Former President Wilson is closely observing the trend of national and foreign events with a view to taking an active part in the choice of the Democratic presidential candidate in 1924.

Recent development in Europe are said to have convinced Mr. Wilson that the United States cannot persist indefinitely in a policy of "self isolation" but must sooner or later take a more active part in helping to bring order out of economic chaos overseas.

The thought that the American people may be won tothe League of Nations, and that former Supreme Court Justice John H. Clarke, one of its ardent champions, may become the logical Democratic standard bearer two years hence, have been the subject of a series of conferences Mr. Wilson has held lately at his Washington home with several Democratic senators.

Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, is among those who have talked with Mr. Wilson most recently. All who have seen him have described him as steadily improving in health and "keenly alert" to he issues of the present, as well as the probable ones of the near future.

That Mr. Wilson is being consulted not infrequently now by some of those who have a voice in the higher circles of the Democratic party is considered significant by prominent Democrats at the national capital.

FOREIGN SHIPPING COMPANIES NOT TO MAKE PORTS IN U. S.

Ruling of Attorney General Has Effect On Points of Landing

London, Oct. 7.—Foreign shipping companies may cease to call at New York and other United States ports because of the ruling of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty at Washington that no ships carrying liquor may enter the three mile limit off the American coast, it was reported here today.

Halifax or some other Canadian port may be substituted for New York, Boston and Philadelphia. At the foreign office it was stated that the American ruling was in "accordance with international law and perfectly correct and logical and logical in a legal sense, but foreign office officials laconically commented: "It will be a long journey for American tourists to go to Halifax."

Ever since Thomas W. Lawson wrote "Frenzied Finance" he has been a doomed man, for Wall Street vowed to "get" him. It did, and now his $6,000,000 Dreamwold estate, near Boston, finest country estate in America, is to be sold on October 12. Lawson is said to be practically broke, though he purchased a $500,000 annuity several years ago, when at the height of his wealth, so he can struggle along in a cheaper home.

MORTGAGE FILING MAY ACCOUNT FOR WOMAN'S DOWNFALL

Alleged "Woman Ponzi" Shaming Illness it is Believed.

Pomeroy, O., Oct. 7.—An order from Judge A. P. Miller today separated Mrs. Susan Kraus, alleged woman "Ponzi" and her husband, 68. As her husband was removed from the cell which had been their home for the past week, the woman said to have received $400,000 for investment from Pomeroy people burst into uncontrollable weeping.

Pomeroy, O., Oct. 7.—The mere filing of a mortgage on the Kraus residence here may account for the downfall of Mrs. Susan Kraus, white haired alleged "woman Ponzi" and her family, it was learned today. This mortgage drawn in favor of the Meigs Savings and Loan Company was filed for record by her son, M. A. Kraus, then secretary of that association, for a loan of $6,000 on August 8, and released September 6, by her son.

C. E. Peoples, attorney for the building association said today that the loan could not have been made legally without going before the board, and that it had never been before the board for action. The company did not loan the money, and as soon as it was learned that such a paper had been filed it was ordered released, Mr. Peoples said.

A. W. Lee, attorney for Creditors of the women, was the last witness to appear before the grand jury yesterday. "If they investigate all the data I gave them," he said as he left the grand jury room, "they'll be there next year.'

A nurse is now in charge of Mrs. Kraus. The attending physician, Dr. J. A. Miller says that her condition is not serious, while jail authorities declare that she has been shamming illness.

ASKS PROSECUTORS FOR COAL PRICES

Columbus, Oct. 7.—State fuel administrator Neal has solicited the aid of county prohecutors in determining upon maxmum retail coal prices.

He has requested the prosecutors to inform him as to what margains retailers were given in 1918 under the federal fuel administration. He also asked the prosecutors to state whether they believe these margins ar fair or whether they should be bosted or lowered and, if so how much.

Administrator Neal also wants the prosecutors to tell of any unusual conditions that may exist, relating to coal distribution by retailers, which might bear upon the question of prices.

GIANTS AGAIN WIN OVER YANKS 4 TO 3

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Giants	0	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	0	4	9	1

Batteries: Giants—McQuillan and Snyder; Yankees—Mays, Jones and Schang.

Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Playing in a heavy rain, overcoming a two run handicap, and backing up a pitcher whose rating is far from first water, those Giants again proved today that they are not to be denied from the long end of the series money, by walloping the Yanks 4 to 3 for three victories out of four attempts.

Even the veteran Carl Mays could not stop the hard slugging McGraw men for although he held them in check for four frames, they solved his puzzling slanth in the fifth stanza and chalked up four runs that gave them a two-run lead. McQuillan was by far from invincible in meantime but his mates backed him up in great shape and in spite of Ward's home run in the seventh, came through the victor by a slender margin.

The Giants threatened in the first when Bancroft singled over Mays' head and took second when Mays threw out Groh, but Frisch flied out and E. Meusel was tossed out. The Yankees showed they had not lost all of their aggressiveness in their half, when four singles produced two runs. Witt opened by singling to center and Dugan repeated to left. Ruth Flew out to Cunningham, Witt going to third. Pipp singled to right scoring Witt while Dugan went to third. Pipp was tossed out between first and second, but R. Meusel singled, scoring Dugan. Meusel stole second and took third on an error but Schang fanned.

Neither side hit safely again until the fourth, when Young, singled to right for the Giants but died there. The Giants contributed their impressive bit to the scoring in the fifth. Snyder singled past short stop, and McQuillan helped win his own game by doubling along the left field foul line, Snyder stopping at third. Bancroft's effort took a bad bound over Ward's head to right-center for a hit, scoring both Snyder and McQuillan. Groh was safe when the ball hit Mays' foot and went for a single, Bancroft taking second. Frisch sacrificed, Bancroft going to third and Groh to second. Meusel was tossed out by Ward, Bancroft scoring and Groh taking third from where he scored on Young's single to left. Young was caught napping off second for the third out. There were four runs, five hits and no errors in the inning.

The Giants got another hit in the sixth, when Snyder singled, but he was stranded when McQuillan fanned. Two were out in the seventh for the Yanks, when Ward hit the ball into the left field bleachers for a home run, and the final Yankee run. E. Meusel singled to open the eighth for the Giants but was left when Young flied out and Kelly hit into a double play. In the Yankee half, Elmer Smith pinch hitter for Mays and for his second time in two days, struck out. Witt then threatened with a double to left, but Dawson flew out to Cunningham and Ruth popped to Frisch.

TO GIVE BASEBALL RESULTS SUNDAY

Returns of the World's Series game Sunday between the Giants and Yankees will be announced by The Gazette and The Republican just as they have been during this week. The game is scheduled to start at the same time, one o'clock Xenia time, and the results will be posted as fast as special wires can carry them.

With the result of Saturday's game more than usual interest attaches to the outcome of the contest Sunday. With the Giants 3 games in the lead. Miller Huggins' sluggers are confident of coming to the fore Sunday and hope to stop the slump which the Yankees have fallen into.

Come out Sunday afternoon and watch the play by play results as they are announced by The Gazette and The Republican.

SOPHOMORES DEFEATED

Columbus, Oct. 7.—More than 4,000 spectators witnessed the freshmen defeat the sophomores in the annual cane rush on Ohio field at Ohio State University here late yesterday. Outnumbered more than six to one, the Sophomores were not conquered until 17 minutes of strenuous fighting took plac.

SUGGEST COAL BE LAID IN BY USERS

Columbus, Oct. 7.—Domestic coal consumers in Ohio were requested to lay in a small emergency supply in public appeals made by State Fuel Administrator Neal today. At the same time Neal directed an appeal to all retail coal dealers in the state asking them to limit coal prices voluntarily for such emergency sales, to the minimum figure consistent with sound business policy, pending determination of fair prices to be set by Administrator Neal.

"Information from many points in the state," Neal said, "indicates that the people of Ohio have been refraining from buying any supply of coal at all until the prices reach a lower level.

"It is to assist these householders in avoiding possible suffering by sudden cold weather that small buying is to be recommended.

YOUNG GREEK AT LOSS IN NEW HOME

From the little town of Karista, in faraway and turbulent Greece, James Malavazos, 13 year old son of John Malavafios, of the Xenia Candy Kitchen, East Main street, came to his father in this country Sunday.

The lad was unaccompanied on long ocean voyage from the land of his birth, but he made many friends among the Greek contingent of immigrants to this country, who looked after him on the long trip. He arrived at New York Sunday evening and was met by his father, who returned here with him Wednesday.

James at present is "lost" in the new country because he does not speak or understand English, but will enter school here next Monday and hopes to soon be able to understand the language so that he can go ahead with his studies. He already can count up to 1,000 and can give good American saluations such as "hello" and "good night."

BREACH IN ANGLO-FRENCH ACCORD AVERTED WITH NEAR EAST COMPROMISE

Lord Curzon and Premier Poincare Reported to Have Reached Agreement Regarding Turkish Occupation of Greece.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary and Premier Poincare of France reached an agreement at their conference on the Turkish Greece situation here today that Greece will evacuate Thrace and that two conferences will be called on the near east situation.

One of the conferences will be held at Scutari, before Nov. 10 at which the terms of the peace settlement will be agreed upon.

The second conference will be held by a committe of the league of nations to settle the question of the status of the straits.

London, Oct. 7.—Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary and Premier Poincare of France, today reached a compromise agreement on the Near East and a copy has been telegraphed to General Sir Charles Harrington, British delegate to the Near East armistice conference at Mudania. Both the British and French cabinets ratified the settlement this afternoon.

While the British cabinet was putting its seal of approval on the Anglo French agreement an unconfirmed report was received from Constantinopl, that the armistice conference had been resumed.

It is understood that the chief terms of the compromise agreement are as follows:

1—Creation of Turkish constabulary to assist allied troops in policing Eastern Thrace.

2—Establishing Turkish civil administration in Eastern Thrace under supervision of allied commissioners.

3—The Turkish army in Asia Minor shall not cross the Turkish strait into Europe until a Near East peace treaty is signed.

4—The British shall maintain Chanak on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles.

Italy is supporting the French viewpoint.

The British foreign secretary and French premier met at 9 o'clock this morning following a midnight session. This meeting broke up at 10:30 o'clock to enable Lord Curzon to ask his givernment for instructions.

A special meeting of the French cabinet was called and Premier Poincare reported to it the provisional agreement he had reached with Lord Curzon.

Lord Curzon was smiling and hopeful and expressed the belief that the conversations would end this afternoon.

The Near East situation was further complicated by the Turkish demand that the allies get out of Thrace before Sunday and Italy's decision to support France, although this latter development had been expected as both Italy and France have been sympathetic to the Turkish cause.

Belief was current that the French and British would agree to send a joint note to Mudania (the seat of the Near East armistice conference) as the basis of a compromise. It is understood that the proposed note would suggest the transfer of Turkish military police into Thrace, giving the Greeks thirty days in which to evacuate that part lying west of the Maritza river. Allied troops would maintain control of Thrace, however, until a Near East peace treaty is drawn and signed.

Lord Curzon has contended for a postponement of the occupation of Thrace by the Turks, pointing out that British concessions already had been made and that the Greek political situation might be seriously endangered if the Turks crossed into Thrace and came in contact with the Greeks in Thrace.

Premier Poincare, speaking for the Turks as well as the French, said that it was only just that Turkish troops should go into Thrace to protect the large Mohammedan population. For some days past the Turks have been accusing the Greeks in Thrace of atrocities.

Anglo-French accord faced its supreme test at Paris today in the conference of foreign secretary Lord Curzon and Premier Poincare of France, on the Near East situation.

It is understood that Britain was objecting to the tactics pursued by Henri Franklin-Bouillon, in the Near East. According to the British M. Franklin-Bouillon is encouraging the Turks to insist upon "demands befitting conquerors."

The British refuse to believe that France is deliberately "double crossing" Great Britain and have presented a plain statement of fact to the French foreign office asking for a definite explanation of the French policy.

BUMPER POTATO CROP IN GREENE COUNTY POSSIBLE IF INSTRUCTIONS FOLLOWED; ALPHA FARM SHOWS WHAT CAN BE DONE

"If the farmers report a light crop of potatoes its their own fault," said County Agent Ford S. Prince, when questioned as to Greene County's crop. Farmers of neighboring counties are reporting a light crop. "The farmers were given instructions concerning the proper planting and care of potatoes, which if heeded, would have insured a bumper crop," said Mr. Prince.

It is a fact, according to Mr. Prince that bumper potato crops are produced year after year only in a latitude of altitude where the climate is cool and the rainfall favorable for maximum potato yields.

To produce high yields of potatoes every year in the Miami Valley, according to Mr. Prince, requires careful attention to all the points necessary for good potato production, including a good soil, careful planting of strong seed, spraying, constant cultivation and fertilization if the soil is not naturally rich.

One of the most tedius tasks in the whole potato growing business, said Mr. Prince, is the cutting of the seed. No truly satisfactory machine has been devised for this purpose, as a machine can not locate the eyes of the potatto and cut it up into uniform pieces as can a man with a knife.

An illustration of the success of potato raising in Greene Conuty, is seen on the farm of Geroge F. and E. J. Ferguson, near Alpha, one of the largest potato farms in southwesern Ohio. The farm belongs to the Ferguson's but is under the active management of the latter and is at present being farmed by Ed Gentner who grows potatoes on the one-third share plan. These men have been producing for the past five years about forty acres of "spuds" annually and growing them successfully.

The land on which the potatoes are grown lies in the Beavercreek Valley and would be classed according to Mr Prince, by soil experts as a clay loam soil. The fact that it produced in 1920 an average of more than two hundred bushels of potatoes per acre shows that it is well adapted to that crop, and that when other conditions are favorable large fields of potatoes can be secured in southern Ohio as well as anywhere else.

Ferguson and Gentner are taking care of the factors of planting and care, and are consequently making good with their potatoes.

To start with the Beavercreek Valley is a rich soil, about one third of the land on which the potatoes are grown being overflow ground, and is enriched almost annually with a deposit of fertile silt from the country farther up the valley.

The farm was reclaimed from the cwamps only a few years ago, and by the dredging out of Beavercreek and draining the ground with tile a very productive soil was produced. The need for fertilizer has not yet been felt and this year for the first time a test is being made on a few rows to see whether it will pay to use fertilizer in growing potatoes.

In the fall of 1921 rye was seeded on all of the land excepting strips through each of the three fields and the green crop was plowed under in the spring of 1921. This is the beginning, said Mr. Prince, of an effort to maintain the organic matter content of the soil which is necessary and is being gradually reduced by the constant cultivation the potatoes receive.

Prior to 1922 Mr. Ferguson had always raised the major portion of his own seed potatoes, keeping enough of his good quality stock for the next season's planting. In the fall of 1921 he purchased 350 bushels of certified seed potatoes from a Michigan grower and this year the major portion of the crop is being grown from this seed stock.

Certified seed potatoes, Mr. Prince explained, are potatoes which have been carefully grown, inspected at least twice in the field and once in the bin by experts, pronounced free of disease, and in addition must have made a satisfactory yield.

After the potatoes were secured for the Ferugson farm they were placed in cold storage at a temperature of 34 to 36 F. This temperature is the proper one for potato seed stock as it is low enough to prevent any sprouting and consquent weakening of the seed, and not enough cold to cause freezing. It is too low at which to keep table stock as potatoes stored at this temperature will develop a sweetish taste acording to Mr. Prince.

This lot of seed came out of cold storage with no sprouts and appeared just as firm and plump as the day they went in. Temperature just above freezing is the only one at which potatoes can be stored until planting time without lowering their vitality, Mr. Prince said.

Until 1922 Ferguson and Gentner have always treated their seed stock to prevent potato scab and rhizoctonia, two diseases which attack the tubers themselves. This has been done by soaking the seed potatoes for 30 minutes in a solution of four ounces of corrosive sublimate to thirty gallons of water. The seed for 1922 was so clean, and free from disease, Mr. Prince said, and as little has been experienced on this soil from these troubles that this treatment was not undertaken in the past season.

Mr. Gentner has a force of men working with knives at seed cutting time and the uniform seed pieces thus secured work much better through the planter than those cut with a potato cutter. The seed potatoes are cut just before they are planted as it is felt that the seed pieces will be weakened if they are allowed to remain too long with their cut surface exposed to the air.

These potatoes are all planted with a planter. The seed pieces are deposited about two inches under the level of the ridge left by the planter. The pieces are 12 to 14 inches apart in the row and the rows are spaced 34 inches apart.

After planting cultivation is begun as soon as possible, to keep down weeds and conserve moisture. Moisture is one of the big factors of production, according to Mr. Prince, who says that the potato itself is 78 per cent water, the vines are very sappy and any procedure that will increase the water of the soil aids in getting larger yields of potatoes.

To maintain a loose layer of soil on top the potatoes are cultivated as often as possible. The implement is an ordinary two horse corn cultivator. With this, two middles are cultivated each time, across the field, and as the rows are close together and the ridge left by the planter is not torn down, this is considered satisfactory for one cultivation. In this way, Mr. Prince says, the potatoes are cultivated from one to ten times during the growing season.

In addition to this the weeds are either pulled or hoed. out from among the plants as often as necessary.

During the drought of 1921 Ferguson and Gentner stopped up the mouths of their tile drains to prevent any water from runing away as the surface soil was so dry. "No check was secured on this operation but the idea was no doubt a good one for that season," Mr. Prince said.

"This constant cultivation and hoeing has transferred a weedy piece of ground into some of the cleanest, nicest looking fields of potatoes one ever saw and accounts in part for the good yields of potatoes that have been produced in past years," said Mr. Prince in commenting on the field.

"These men are thorough believers in spraying the potato crop and as soon as the plants are about six inches high Mr. Gentner starts with the sprayer and goes over the fields every ten days or two weeks until the vines get large and cover the ground thoroughly.

"So interested have these men been that each year for three years we have maintained check plots of sprayed and unsprayed potatoes to see what effect the spraying has had. In fact each new factor they introduce is checked up carefully to see whether or not it pays. This year they are running checks on fertilizer and no fertilizer, rye plowed down vs no rye, certified vs northern grown table stock and home grown seed and sprayed vs usprayed potatoes. Keeping track of these things is a little extra work but by doing so they always know whether the operation pays."

WILL STRESS PLACE OF FARMWIFE WHEN MEETING IS HELD

The place of the farm woman in any program of rural betterment is strongly to be urged at the coming agricultural extension conference when the more than 100 county agents home demonstration agents, and boys' and girls' club agents of Ohio will come from their offices in 85 of the 88 counties in the State and meet, October 18-20, at the Ohio State University.

"To the farm woman of today," declares C. J. Galpin, in charge of rural social studies for the United States Department of Agriculture, and scheduled as a leading conference speaker, "we look to win for rural society equal advantage with society at large in matters of the human mind and spirit."

Dr. Galpin holds that the general adoption of power washers and other labor saving devices in rural homes is one of the most important developments in America today, since "it will, as a single measure, banish chronic fatigue, and add to the assets of the rural home a surplus of feminine energy and enthusiasm." He will speak October 19, the second day of the conference.

Ruby Green Smith, director of home demonstration in New York State and the author of a widely-quoted "creed" for women members of the farm bureau, will attend the conference all three days and deliver several addresses.

The general topic of the conference, it is announced, will be the need of community extension programs, definitely determined by local conditions, dealing with and aided by everybody in the community; men, women, boys and girls.

MAY BUY RADIO FOR MARKET REPORTS

The Executive Committee of the Greene County Farm Bureau met in the Farm Bureau office, in the Federal Building, Saturday, October 7.

Questions coming before the members of the board included that of securing a radio outfit to receive market reports at the Farm Bureau office; the use of movies at the annual township meetings in November, and the date of the annual Greene Coonty Farm Bureau meeting .

CLOTHING WORK TO START NOVEMBER 9 ON SECOND YEAR

The second year's clothing work for farm women, being given in cooperation with the Home Economics Department of the Ohia State University, and the Greene County Farm Bureau, will start on November 9, according to the announcement of County Agent Ford S. Prince, Saturday.

The first year's campaign in the Clothing Club work started in November 1921, and was carried on by the township leaders who met in Xenia for their instruction, and then held similar meetings in their own vcinity for the leaders who passed the instructions on to their neighbors.

The Clothing Club plan proved to be very popular, since it brought out many short cuts in sewing, which were taken up and learned by the women. About three hundred women took the lessons. according to Mr. Prince, the number of the lessons including five.

The Clothing Club course for 1922-23 consists of three lessons, the fist to be given at home, and the last two (as was the plan last year) to be given by Ohio State University extension specialists to the township leaders in Xenia.

The leaders of the Clothing Club work last year were, Mrs. N. J. Kuriger, and Mrs. Chester Harner, of Bath township; Mrs. E. Fox, and Mrs. Charles Johannes, of Beavercreek; Mrs. William Hardman, and Mrs. Kenneth Fogg, of Miami township; Mrs. D. E. Paggett, and Mrs. Will Short, Xenia township; Mrs. R. B. McKay, and Mrs. Herbert Conklin, of Caesarcreek township; Mrs. James Laurens and Miss Mary Bollinger, of Spring Valley township; Mrs. W. C. St. John and Miss Maude Strong, of New Jasper township; Mrs. Edward Hastings and Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Cedarville township; Mrs. C. R. Reed and Mrs. George Glass, of Ross township; Mrs. Chas. Robinson and Mrs. John Tressler. of Silvercreek township, and Mrs. Henry Thomas, and Mrs. John Chitty, of Jefferson township.

"We are hoping that the leaders will consent to serve in their townships for the coming lessons," said Mr. Prince, "and some of them have already promised to do so."

TO HOLD MEETINGS IN TOWNSHIPS IN NOVEMBER IS WORD

The Greene County Farm Bureau is planning a series of annual meetings of each township in the county, which will be held early in November, it was announced Saturday.

At the meeting, the accomplishments of the township Farm Bureau organizations for the past year will be discussed by the leaders of the various projects in the community. At the same time an elertion of the officers of each township will be held and the new project committee will be appointed for a definite time, who will lay out the work for 1923.

After the committee has been appointed the members will be called together in each township, to outline their work which their township is to carry on during the next year.

It is panned to have the meetngs for the outling of the programs of all work by January 1, aicording to County Agent Prince.

GREENE COUNTIANS TO ATTEND FARMERS' DAY ON OCTOBER 18

Farm Bureau leaders and other citizens of Greene County have given assurance that a large sized delegation from this county will attend the big event at Washington Court House, Wednesday, October 18, when United States Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will be present at the Agricultural-Community Day.

Secretary Wallace nas indicated that he will speak upon a non-political topic of timely and vital interest to the farmers of Ohio. He will be present during the whole days program in which eight counties are to participate. These are Ross, Highland, Pickaway, Clinton, Madison, Greene, Montgomery and Fayette.

A mammoth pageant in which more than fifty floats will be seen in addition to many other novel parade features will be reviewed during the forenoon by Secretary Wallace and other notables who are to be present. A big picnic dinner will follow at the Fayette County fair grounds where the announcement of prize awards will be made after the pageant for the best designs and ideas expressed in the floats. Each of the eight counties is to be represented in the parade pageant.

A busy afternoon program will include many attractive and novel contests in which Greene County is to be represented and in which desirable prizes are being offered.

A letter just received by W. O. Beatty, general director for the day, from Secretary Wallace gives assurance that the Secretary will be present and his time for the whole day will be at the disposal of the committee.

TO SHIP CATTLE TO GREENE COUNTY

Greene County is among the large number of Ohio counties that have placed orders for feeder cattle, that is to be purchased on the western ranges and shipped directly to Ohio feed lots. Orders for more than 1,600 head of cattle have been placed at the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation offices, from over the state, with orders still coming in. Orders for these teeder cattle to be cooperatively purchased are already reported from 13 counties.

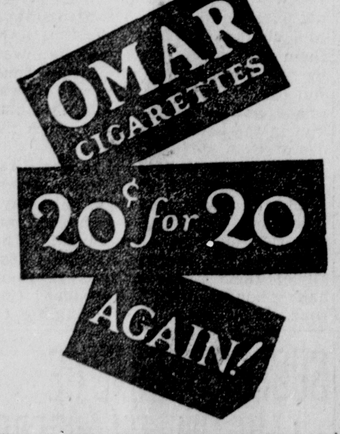

The number of cattle already ordered exceeds that purchased a year ago, when the plan was first tried in Ohio on a large scale. Purchases of a year ago, limited to two counties, amounted to about 40 carloads.

Calves, yearlings and two-year-old animals will be brought into Ohio this year under the direct feeder buying plan, which, it is said, assures a more uniform bunch of feeders in better condition.

Clark county leads in the number of cattle ordered up to the present time with orders being received also from Morrow, Ashland, Carroll, Ross, Richland, Sandusky, Union, Wyandotte, Madison, Wayne, Greene and Wood Counties.

TO SPEAK AT MEETING.

A. F. Hedges, manager of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, wil be the principal speaker at the meeting to be held by the members of the Farm Bureau and the cream producers of Miami County at Yellow Springs, Tuesday night, at seven-thirty o'clock.

COUNTY ROADS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

In preparation for winter, Greene County's roads are in excellent condition, according to County Agent Ford S. Prince, due to the addition of new material that has been placed where it is believed it was the most needed.

Quite a large amount of gravel has been applied to the roads, according to Mr. Prince, so that the many miles of highway and township roads have been improved despite shipping conditions. The good condition of the county's roads is good news to the farmer, with winter only around the corner.

BURGLAR'S LOOT AT LOCAL FIRM LARGER

A re-check of cash on hand in the offices of the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Company, Detroit and Third Streets, proved that $112.38 was taken by a burglar who entered the offices Thursday night instead of $5 as originally reported.

Employes who discovered the robbery Friday morning reported to police that only $5 had been taken. The burglar had taken the cash slip with the money, thus making a check impossible until the bookkeeper had gone over the books. This check showed the burglar's loot was larger than at first thought.

The thief used a diamond to cut the corner out of the glass in an office door facing on the yard, and then pried the cash drawer open. The cash is usually hidden but Thursday night was not taken from the drawer.

TOO MUCH MEAT HURTS KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other says a well known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The woment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulates them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acid in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drinking which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

PACKED HOUSE SEES SHANNONS FRIDAY

A packed house greeted the first appearance this season of the Harry Shannon Players at City Hall Theater Friday night, in the opening of a two-day engagement here.

The Shannons selected "The Marriage of Geraldine," a comedy of the farce type, as the opening vehicle, and ably presented the offering to the mirth and amusement of the big crow of theater goers.

Patrons said the vehicle was one of the best ever offered here by the Shannons, that the roles were well cast and the players well adapted to the parts. The play itself was of the mirth provoking type, similar to the selection for Saturday night, the closing night of the engagement, when "Kiss and Make Up" is the offering. The Shannons are appearing here through arrangements with the Standard Amusement Company.

AMERICAN POSTAGE STAMPS.

New stamps to be issued by the Postoffice Department this month reveal a shrewd realization of the subtly educative influence of distributing millions of little pictures of America and great Americans through the mails. "There's a reason" for the value of every portrait. He who was first in other patriotic respects is on the stamp of widest circulation. George Washington was a citizen of Philadelphia. But that other famous resident of that city, Benjamin Franklin, has the one-cent stamp designed in his honor, as the first Postmaster General. Lincoln's picture is three cents, and the one woman comes next, Martha Washington. It is interesting to find the Department explaining that the five-cent stamp is devoted to Roosevelt because of his fame abroad.

In this brief roster of the philatelic hall of fame Franklin is the only man who was not a President. The charye for viewing the Capitol is high—$2—but there are Senators and Representatives who have paid considerably more than that. A view of Niagara is 25 cents—but that is a great deal less than the fare thither; and 20 cents is cheap for the Yosemite, since many tourists who would like a souvenir of its natural attractions have well-filled pocketbooks.

In some parts of the world the frequent issue of postage stamps is the recognized source of considerable easy revenue. Stamps are published chiefly to sell to collectors. Here all our stamps are not immediately buried in stamp albums—they have to go to work. Even after they are pasted in books, however, postage stamps are instructors in history and often in art to many young people. Sir William C. Van Horne, the great railway builder, was not the only magnate who has earnestly recommended that boys should collect postage stamps as part of a process of education.

BE A BULL ON AMERICA!

Billions of dollars, not figuratively speaking, but actually billions of real money, are going into construction work and vast industrial undertakings throughout the country.

Railroads are beginning to order rolling stock more freely than for a long time, knowing that the revival of business now under way, despite strikes and other difficulties, will bring about a volume of traffic far beyond their present ability to handle.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are going into the construction of highways, and the highway building of the country has scarcely begun as compared with what we shall see during the next few years.

When the Steel Corporation announced an advance of wages it made one of the wisest moves in the history of that great corporation, wisely managed as it has been. Following its example other interests will of necessity have to pay higher wages, and this should be a matter of profound rejoicing on the part of employers and as well as employes. Low wages are always a curse. They curse every country in which they prevail. India and China are fair samples of what low wages mean to a nation. High wages, which enable men to earn enough to live in comfort, are a blessing individually and nationally. We are tending to higher wages, to full employment. The curse of the deflation of labor, like the curse of the deflation of credit, has run its day.

There is no longer room for the pessimist. His day is gone. Optimism, strong virile optimism, should rule the land. Out of the turmoil of the hour in strikes there will come peace between employer and employe.

PIG RAISING AN ART, SECRETARY WALLACE DECLARES.

There is more to the business of hog raising than just to let the pigs grow up, Secretary Wallace, of the Department of Agriculture, told the National Swine Growers' Association at Peoria, Tuesday. The business now, he declared, is one of art and science.

It is an accomplishment, the Secretary said, to control the shape of the pig's nose and the curl of his tail. It's another matter of merit to control the form and the color and the shape, and make the animal beautiful as well as useful, the Secretary said.

As to the science of the business as it is reflected in the flow of commerce, the Secretary mentioned that hog growers in this day and age "change the form as the needs require, adding to it or taking from it, producing more fat or more lean, more bacon or more lard, larger hams or smaller hams, as the changing character and the supply of feed or the changing tastes of the consumer make necessary.

"The rather wide fluctuations in prices of hogs from year to year are bad, both for the producer and the consumer. If prices could be more nearly stabilized so that the producer could have more assurance of a reasonable profit year after year, he could afford to produce hogs more cheaply than under present conditions. The consumer would benefit with the producer," the Secretary said.

One reason assigned by the Secretary for the price ranges was the lack of knowledge as to the number of hogs in the country. The department statistics are not as full and as reliable as were desired, he said. But efforts are being made to overcome that condition by the department.

..FOODS TO MAKE YOU FAT ..

We talk a great deal in this space about foods for reducing and foods for clearing the skin. Last week we were discussing foods for those who cannot or should not eat meat, but who needed an equivalent in nourishment. Today I should like to suggest some foods to build flesh without overtaxing the digestion.

This problem of what to eat to grow fat is always a great one. It is easy enough to eat in order to grow thin. The answer to that is mostly "don't" for you cannot gain flesh on what you do not eat. But if you over eat to grow fat you overtax the digestion and do much more harm than good. But these foods are easily assimilated.

Eat thick soups always instead of thin, eat thin, slices of bread thickly coated with butter, eat meat if you like it and digest it, giving preference to the fat rather than to the lean portions. Have your fish fried or served with a thick gauce, eat potatoes covered with butter or rich gravy, or mashed with cream, butter and seasoning.

Have your green vegetables served cold in a salad with thick mayonnaise, or done in the Italian style which is to fry them a little after they have been cooked in olive oil, seasoning and sometimes grated cheese.

Have all fried foods cooked in olive oil or vegeable fat. These are as nourishing as lard and much more easily digested. In the matter of puddings, pies, cakes, ice creams or any such sweet your choice is restricted only by your inclination. All these dishes are fattening, as the stout woman knows to her great sorrow. Cheese omelettes and cheese savories by the way, are easily digested and very fattening. Drink milk whenever you can.

Beacon:—Your red nose and pimples are a result of disorders in the system, which accounts for the reason why the local treatments are not helping you very much. A diet in which there is too much starch or too much meat would cause this condition and a change to a more balanced one would correct the trouble. Often the digestion is improved and the skin cleared merely by changing from all white bread to that made from whole wheat flour.

G. M. F.—Dash cold water over the bust each day and dry through light friction from a coarse Turkish towel. This will make the muscles firm in a few months unless the flabbiness is the result of drying up the milk by using camphor after nursing an infant, and in such a case it will take a longer time to effect a recovery.

T. M.:—With a height of five feet two inches your weight at 113 is all right. If your proportions were correct your bust and hips should be 34 inches with the measurement of 24 inches for the waist. Increase your chest and bust through deep breathing, and reduce the hips by taking the following exercises: Stand erect, hands on hips and bend the body forward at the waistline. Swing the upper part of the body around to the right and then to the left as far as is possible, aiming to describe a circle with the upper part of the body, while the lower part remains stationary.

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn.—"Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past."—Mrs. E. T. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain.

If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. We believe it will help you greatly, for it has helped others.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

DO IT RIGHT.

If you have a task to do, do it right; if you're making Irish stew, do it right; if you're darning Father's sock, if you're putting down a walk, if you're winding up a clock, do it right. Sloppy work will hurt your fame; do it right; careless workmanship's a shame; do it right; when you paint the kitchen floor, when you fix the stable door—whatsoever be your chore, do it right. If you'd play a game of ball, do it right; if you'd lecture in a hall, do it right; if you'd build yourself a home, if you'd write a noble poem, if you'd punch a neighbor's dome, do it right. Though you have a humble task, do it right; if in Easy street you'd bask, do it right; for the fellows who advance, taking hold of every chance, profiting by circumstance, do it right. If your duty's high and great, do it right; if you labor for the state, do it right; high or low, it's just the same; man should always play the game; he must, if he'd sidestep shame, do it right.

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

Strings

God doesn't tie strings to His promises. Nature gives face forward. The fact is that Life's larder was well filled when we came on the scene—filled for us.

There are more things free in this world than those you have to pay for. And yet, just the minute that you choose to possess anything and make it yours, it takes upon itself an established value and you have to arrange for its up-keep.

God and Nature and Opportunity didn't bring strings into existence. Human beings did that job.

Take the politician, for example. He has a thousand strings—more or less—tied to every one of his eloquent promises.

And what a common thing it is for all of us to praise a person or good event only to tie strings to what we say.

What wholesomeness there is in honest expression, and sincere praise, in straight from the shoulder statements that ring with true belief.

How rarely are our services rendered without thought of any return except that one great return of appreciation and personal glow of soul.

With what affectation we are surrounded. How ignorant in heart most of us are.

How keen is the competitive urge in the world—in what a small degree are we our brother's keeper.

If you have praise to offer, why not send it out from a whole heart?

How useless, petty and silly are the little jealousies that hop out from so many people's consciousness. What a world of friendships there are with strings tied to every corner of them.

If you have a friend—a pal—be glad. You are indeed rich. Do not undermine your wealth by putting strings to this relationship and pulling them to you every once and a while. Offer your best and all—or stay out of the blessed game.

Always try to give as much as you take. Therein lies concord, wholesome communication and affection de luxe!

FORTY ONE CASES CARED FOR DURING MONTH BY A. R. C.

The report for September of Miss Helen Evers, County Red Cross nurse, submitted to the Executive Board of the Red Cross, Wednesday, showed that 41 cases had been cared for during the month. One hundred and seventy two visits were made by Miss Evers, forty five of which were in the county and 127 in Xenia. Of the 172 visits, 39 were nursing visits, 8 infant welfare, one prenatal, one tuberculosis, 10 child welfare, 30 to homes of school children and 83 other visits.

Miss Evers visited ten cripples in September, one adult, and nine children. Five of these were in Xenia, three in Bath township; one in Miami township, and one in Spring Valley township.

One visit was made by the nurse at the request of parents, to give surgical dressing to a crippled child, who was recently operated on by the Rotary Club. Miss Evers also arranged for one tonsil and adenoid operation for a child, which was paid for by the family.

During the month she secured from the City Commission free ambulance service to a Dayton hospital for two typhoid patients, and secured hospitalization in Dayton for one typhoid patient and accompanied her there.

The report of Miss Evers shows that she made two Red Cross talks during the month, and cooperated with the Greene County Medical Association on the psychopathic clinic. She solicited and received the hearty cooperation and assured assistance from Greene County Medical Association for the Red Cross tonsilectory clinic to be held in October.

During September Miss Evers attended meetings of the south-western Public Health Nurses, held in Columbus, a meeting of the local Red Cross nurses and of the 11th district Ohio Graduate Nurses, both held in Springfield.

Terre cotta is so often seen in smart shops now, featured alone or as trimming for the brown, with which it combines so well, that a word of warning should be offered those who like this shade. It is a color that can be worn most safely only by light complexioned women. But dark women should use it cautiously, for it is apt to suggest age, particularly if posed too close to the face.

One of the nicest looking frocks which I saw at a Paris shop was made of terra cotta duvetyn, relieved with piping of sand color and gold thread embroidery on the collar, belt and cuffs of the sleeves. A copy of this frock I saw worn by a popular film star in this country. She wore a hat in the same color, with a rolled brim and black osprey feathers.

XENIA DOWNS TROY IN DRAMATIC CLOSE OF GAME FRIDAY SCORING TOUCHDOWN IN LAST TWO MINUTES OF PLAY WITH PASS

The doors of Xenia's football Hall of Fame were opened Friday night for six blue and white players to march in and occupy newly chiseled niches with the notables.

They are the six football players who enabled Coach Earl Burgner's well trained and fighting Central High eleven defeat Troy High's heavy team 7 to 0, at the Fairgrounds field Friday afternoon, in a game that will go down in red ink in the archives of Xenia's pigskin historian.

A lurid sport fiction writer might have weaved the fabric of a pulsating yarn out of the tense moments that immediately preceded Xenia's score. It was on Troy's 45 yard line, that the tired and worn Troy backs, unable to progress against the ferocious defense put by the the locals and confident that they were safe decided to punt.

Allen, shifty fullback, dropped back to boot the oval. He did not reckon with Captain Don Currie, who enters the scene as Hall of Fame candidate No. 1. Captain Currie blocked the soaring oval, and Woolary, Candidate No. 2, retrieved the leather for Xenia and was downed on Troy's 21 yard line. After Art Currie had bored in for one and Fuller had dodged for four, Art Currie passed to Tom Hollencamp, Candidate No. 3, who negotiated 15 yards on the play and downed the ball on Troy's seven yard line. Art Currie and Horace Smith are Candidates 4 and 5, respectively for it was a twisting, contrary pass into the end zone that Smith wrapped his digits around for the only touchdown of the game. Bob Gegner, incidentally a recruit, will occupy the last pedestal, with his beautiful drop kick from the ten yard line, that added the extra point.

Because these six pigskin chasers are seemingly prominently mentioned, is no discredit to the other members of the team. Maybe they stepped into the limelight, because their particular openings came at the break of the game. Maybe it was because packed sidelines prayed in screeching voices for a score while but two minutes of actual play remained before the game was ended. Maybe it was because of the tense excitement of one of the best high school games ever seen on a local oblong, emphasized the play of these athletes.

It was a more shifty, better trained peppier and more aggressive team that took the field in the blue and white colors, than the eleven that defeated Greenville last week. Captain Currie and his mates had learned much at the hands of Coach Burgner during the past week, and they won because they out-strategied the heavy visitors, had a better aerial attack perfected and were in better physical condition, rather than because of individual play. The performance of Cowan at end might have been just as brilliant as his running mate, Smith, if he had been elected to receive the oval, and this may also be said of the rest of the athletes. It was particularly pleasing to Coach Burgner to see the work of Zell and Woolary at the guards, both practically untried before. Big Bob Yeakley at center was another source of comfort to the mentor, for he annoyed the visiting attack seriously. Huge Bob Ballentyne played one of the best games of his career and was a tower of strength at tackle. Fuller at half, played a whale of a game both on defense and offense. Randall, the fleet-footed half was dangerous on but one occasion, when he negotiated 20 yards and ran off sides, and his efforts during the rest of the pastiming were smothered. At that it was his punting that gave the locals the edge in the kicking duel that developed from the start of the fracas.

Randall's long dash, Art Currie's passes to Hollencamp and Gegner's return of punts were features of the game ouside of the scoring play. For the visitors, Byrum and Rozell at the ends, Captain Wright at center and the performances of Eyler, Moyer and Tooly in the backfield, sparkled. Both ends cut down many of Xenia's plays and broke up myriad forward passes, while the line was chunky and charged well, and was almost impregnable.

The heavy Troy backfield began tearing the Xenia line to pieces in the first quarter, but stopped some what in the second. At that the visitors made five first downs in the first half to three made by the locals and completed one out of two attempted passes for nine yards, while the blue and white eleven completed only one out of nine passes for 15 yards. In the second half, however, the visitors made but one first down for a total of six, while Xenia made four for a total of 7. All four of Troy's passes in the second half failed while Xenia completed our out of a possible 14 for a total of 59 yards. Altogether Xenia completed five out of a total of 23 passes, 18 being grounded, for a total of 74 yards. Troy completed one out of a total of six atempts for nine yards.

Captain Wright of Troy won the toss and chose the kick while Captain Currie chose to defend the west goal. Moyer kicked off to Don Currie who was downed on Xenia's 41 yard line. Hollencamp made one yard and Fuller six, while Art Currie made three and Hollencamp two for first down. Randall then picked up one Art Currie 3, Randall 3, and Hollencamp two, the ball going to Troy on downs. Griner made six around end and then Moyer was stopped for no gain. On the next play Stevens fumbled, Hollencamp recovering for Xenia on Xenia's 46. Randall ran around left end for 30, but the ball was brought back ten because he steppd off sides. Hollencamp made 8 and Art Currie 4 for first down. Randall then lost 5, and two passes grounded after Randall had made one yard, the ball going to Troy on her own 27. Stevens made 4, Moyer 3 and then Stevens 5 for first down. Eyler went in for one, Moyer made 4 and Griner 6 for another first down. Eyler fumbled but recovered for no gain on Xenia's 48 yard line. Tooley took Steven's plact at half when the latter was hurt, Moyer could not gain and punted to Fuller on Xenia's 26. Randall lost 5 and then punted to Eyler on Troy's 40. Tooly made eight and Moyer first down in two attempts as the quarter ended.

Xenia was penalized five yards when Yeakley was off side. Moyer lost two then Tooley and Moyer made it first down. Tooley made 4, and Troy was penalized five yards for off side play Tooley made one, and a pass grounded, then Moyer tossed to Tooley for nine yards, Xenia taking the ball on downs on her own 24 yard line. Fuller was stopped and Currie lost five. Randall punting to Troy on the 50. Yeakley spilled Eyler for no gain, and then Tooley and Eyler could not make it first down. Xenia taking the ball on her 40. Fuller made two and a pass grounded. When Randall could not gain he punted to Troy on her 23 yard line. Tooley made 4 and Moyer punted to Fuller on Troy's 45. Gegner made two and Fuller two, and with the Troy line drawn up for a buck, Currie passed over their heads to Smith who was just able to reach the oval and clutch it out of the air. Gegner made his third drop kick attempt good for the extra point. With only two minutes to play, Mumford took Eyler's place and Zile was substituted for Griner. Yeakley kicked off to Troy's 35. NEW GRIDIRON TO BE USED IN GAME

Xenia's American Legion football team will romp out on a new gridiron when it takes the field against the West Alexandria Ex-Hi eleven Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Management of the Legion has obtained the Washington street Base Ball Park for future independent games, and the first combat will be staged on the new oblong Sunday. The team has been practicing on that field, and inorder to fit it for football, Manager Roy Bailiff of the Electrics baseball team who has the field under lease, has leveled it off.

The field is within much easier access from all parts of the city than the Fairgrounds Gridiron where last Sunday's game was staged and the change is expected to be popular. All the weaknesses of the eleven showd up in last Sunday's defeat at the hands of the Dayton Mascottes and gave Coach George Baldner an opportunity to drill the athlets hard this week in the department in which they needed stiff rehearsals. This was especially true in signal work, as the local backfield was gummed up repeatedly because the signals did not work properly.

The Sunday visitors have made a good reputation for themselves. Most of the players have appeared here with West Alex High football team and are known to local fans. Among them is Seekamp, star end and half, who is playing a whale of a game for the independent aggregation.

BUYS OUT INTEREST IN ACCESSORY STORE

Through a deal completed this week Robert Collins, partner with Carl Ervin in the Xenia Autonecessity Company, South Detroit Street, has sold out his interest in the partnership to Thomas McClelland.

Mr. McClelland, who has been a salesman for the Delco Light Company in this county for some time, has resigned that position, to be actively associated with Mr. Ervin, in operation of the company which operates an auto accessory store and vulcanizing shop.

Mr. Collins, retiring member of the firm, has not announced his plans for the future. The Xenia Autonecessity Company was originally started by Collins and Ervin two and a half years ago. Later Ervin sold out his interest to his partner, and still later bought it back, resuming the partnership. With the new partner now in the firm the company will continue to operate as in the past and with the same firm name.

TELEPHONE MERGER DEAL RATIFIED BY CLEVELAND MEETING

Representatives of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company and the Springfield-Xenia Telephone Company, Friday ratified the deal for the merger of the two companies, at a meeting held in Cleveland.

The ratification is the final step in the preliminaries to the merger, the Ohio Bell Company having purchased the properties of the Citizens or Home Company for $615,000 after the merger had been approved by the Ohio State Utilities Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

H. E. Allen, of Dayton, district manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company issued the following statement concerning the merger Friday night: "Following approval by the necessary public authorities, The Ohio Bell Telephone Company has acquired as of October 1, 1922, the property of The Springfield-Xenia Telephone Company. As soon as the necessary re-arrangements of plant and installation of additional facilities can be completed, the local exchange service will be unified in the places where two exchanges are now operated, and it will be possible for every subscriber to obtain long distance service to all points heretofore reached by both companies."

Deloss Odell, of Springfield, secretary and general manager of The Springfield-Xenia Telephone Company since 1904, will have charge of closing up the business of that company. The officers of that company are as follows: President, Paul A. Staley; vice president, John B. McGrew; secretary and general manager Deloss Odell; treasurer, William Mills. The directors are: E. L. Barber, Toledo; Marcus Shoup, Xenia; Herbert S. Forgy, New Carlisle; John B. McGrew, William Mills. W. H. Schaus Paul A. Staley, Deloss Odell, E. P. Holman. William Holman and H. S. Kissell of Springfield.

Negotiations for the purchase of The Springfield-Xenia Telephone Company by the Bell interests were opened in 1911 and renewed about three years ago. Both exchanges here will be unified into one and the service combined as soon as the work can be carried out.

Coach Warren Vannorsdall's Washington C. H. High football team was defeated at Washington Friday afternoon by McClain High of Greenfield.

Vannorsdall's aggregation opened its season last week by holding London High to a scoreless tie. The former Central High star has developed a crack defensive team at the Fayette County Metropolis but is worried most about a formidable offense now Coach aVnnorsdall hopes to have his attack perfected by November 17, when he brings his proteges here to meet Coach Earl Burgner's pets.

FOOTBALL SEASON SWINGS INTO ACTION ALL OVER COUNTRY

Many teams in the Big Ten and Ohio Conference will get their first real test of the season as football swings into practically complete action all over the country Saturday.

The eyes of Ohio fans are directed toward the handsome new stadium of Ohio State at Columbus, where Wilce's gridders will stage their coming out party with Ohio Wesleyan an annual lid-prying event.

The Methodists did not show much against Otterbein last week, but it is reported that they were under wraps. Jerry Katherman, former high school coach here, is tutoring the Wesleyan line this fall. Much conjecturing has been done about the State gridders, for Wilce has had the job of developing practically an entire new team.

Further the State team has suffered severe set backs in the loss of Noel Workman, declared ineligible, which means a shift of his brother, "Hoge" to quarter while Ollie Klee, Dayton boy, will take that half. "Tee" Young will be out of Saturday's game because he is conlitioned. Michaels will be off at full because of injuries Wesleyan has never beaten State in 15 years of athletic relations.

Ohio Conference games of importance are the Akron-Wooster clash and the Kenyon and Oberlin game, Akron walloped Western Reserve last week 45 to 0, while Wooster was defeating Ashland 7 to 0, but fans believe Wooster will uncover a better attack this week end. Dopesters say Kenyon has a good chance to upset Oberlin's aspirations. John Ballentyne of this city will play tackle for Muskingum when that teams meets Wittenberg at Springfield. Otterbein will play Hiram.

Denison will have its real test with Coach Harper's Wilmington College team, and fans here believe the Baptists will have to step some to come out on top. The Quakers have made themselves talked of by holding Butler to a 6 to 0 score and Detroit to seven points last week end. In spite of injuries that will keep Christman and Reardon out of he game, it is believed Wilmington will give Denison a real battle.

Ohio Northern, which appears to be unusually strong, defeated Bluffton 19 to 0 Friday. St. Xaviers, a new conference team will play Morris Harvey and Mt. Union will meet Ashlaid. Otterbein will clash with Hi? ram in a Conference battle. The University of Dayton will play its second game at Dayton Saturday afternoon with Earlham of Richmond, Ind. Ohio University plays Baldwin Wallace while Cincinnati will meet Kentucky.

Harold Ray, of east of Xenia, has entered Cedarville College, for the fall term. Mr. Ray is a graduate of Central High School with the class of 1921.

BROTHER IN LAW OF SLAIN MINISTER GRILLED BY OFFICERS

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 7.—After an allnight grilling at the hands of prosecutors, detectives and members of the state constabulary, Willie Stevens, brother-in-law of Dr. Edward W. Hall, slain New Brunswick minister, was brought back to his home here early today from Somerville, county seat of Somerset county.

The authorities refused to divulge the results of the questioning of Stevens but they predicted an araest within 36 hours in connection with the mysterious slaying of Dr. Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church sexton. The bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found in a field on the outskirts of New Brunswick three weeks ago today.

New methods and new purposes on the part of the authorities directing the investigation are indicated by the drastic action of grilling Stevens without presence of his legal adviser. It is zelieved that the "kid glove" policy that has been attributed to investigators trus far has been abandoned and that a vigorous drive to clear up the mystery portends.

DONALD RESCUES NELLIE

Chapter 90

Nellie awoke struggling. What was it? She raised herself in bed then fell back gasping. Was she dreaming? Suddenly she realized it was smoke. The house must be afire.

She almost fell as she made the effort to stand. Just then there came a knocking at her door.

"Nellie, wake up, the house is afire!" It was Donald's voice although she did not recognize it. "Open the door, dear! Hurry!"

She staggered to the door, then as she turned the key, she fell forward into the arms held out to her, She knew nothing more until revived by the air in the street. with Mrs. Roberts bending over her, while Donald held her.

"What is it?" She gasped. Then she remembered, smoke, and all these people, all the borders around her.

"The house caught fire somewhere between the walls made a lot of smoke but everyone got out, and the fire is also nearly out. There never was any danger excepting from suffocation," Mrs. Roberts said guietly. Nellie was still dazed, still chocking.

"I was only in time," Donald had told her. "Her room was full of smoke and she was scarcely awake." But like Mrs. Roberts he made light of the danger to Nellie, whom they feared, until a doctor arrived had swallowed enough smoke to injure her.

In a couple of hours they all went back into the house, Nellie remaining in Mrs. Robert's room, one of those least affected by smoke.

It was several days before she entirely recovered from the affects of the smoke and fright combined. Naturally Donald hrad often asked about her, and when she was in Mrs. Robert's room had lingered to talk with her.

"You saved my life Donald," she said.

"Nenesenso! You wohld have found your way out, or someone would have wakened you."

"No I could scarcely breath, even when I first wakened. And it was all I could do to reach the door. I know I should have died but for you." She shivered. At her age life is sweet.

"Have it your own way, but get well. You are to repay whatever I did by forgetting all about it, the fire, me, everything." He had noticed her almost convulsive shiver when she spoke of it. "It is a tabooed subject from now on'.'

"I shan't forget though, Donald."

After this Nellie, as is the way with girls, looked upon Donald as a hero She felt sure he had saved her life and was so kind and grateful to him that he began to feel a hope that in time he might win her. Gradually he began again to ask her to go out with him occasionally, to the theater, a concert, or accasionally to a restaurant dinner, sometimes including Mrs. Roberts. While they never had talked of his feeling for Nellie he felt she approved of his suit; that she would help him if she could.

The boarders looked on approvingly. Miss Pitt remarked:

"I hope she knows her own mind this time and isn't leading that nice Mr. Horne on just to have a good time. In my girlhood people were more serious."

Still Donald waited.

"I must be sure she has forgotten him—that she has no longering regrets," he said to himself. "But I have so little to offer, compared to what he could have given her."

Nellie's old gay spirits had returned. She was happy without questioning why. She liked her work, knew she gave satisfaction, had made some new friends among the employees—most of them rather superior girls who had secured their positions much as she had, through personal acquaintance with the heads of the board.

Occasionally she joined these new friends for an evening, and thoroughly enjoyed herself with them. She was frankness itself concerning her pleasures and Donald often felt a bit jealous of the young men she met.

"They'll be falling in love with her! No one could help it," he said, and it gave him an anxious feeling. He had tried to be patient but he couldn't be much longer. "I must know," he declared.
